

Grain crop falls short; foreign sales delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Monday reduced its forecasts of grain production in both the United States and the Soviet Union, and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz ordered a further delay in additional grain sales to Russia.

The department's August crop report showed that drought in the western Corn Belt and parts of the Great Plains had cut the potential 1975 corn crop — a key to future food price prospects — to 5.850 billion bushels.

The new estimate, although 196 million bushels below July prospects, was still an all-time record. Butz predicted that if the crop is harvested without further substantial loss, grain sales to Russia will have only "negligible" impact on American food prices.

However, because of the drop from July and the possibility that continuing drought since Aug. 1 may have made even further inroads, Butz said he had asked American exporters and Soviet officials to "refrain from any more contracts at least until we see more about what's going on."

Butz said the suspension of further sales — continuing a hold order imposed after the Soviets ordered 9.8 million tons of American grain in July — was adopted "to be on the safe side."

"We do want to sell more to the U.S.S.R. and if this (U.S.) crop materializes, it will be easily within our capacity to do so," Butz said.

In addition to the new U.S. corn forecast, the Agriculture Department's August crop report put wheat production at a record 2.141 billion bushels, down 47 million bushels from last month but 19 per cent above last year's record.

The corn estimate was 26 per cent above last year's poor crop but 3 per cent above the previous record.

Soybean production was estimated at 1.458 billion bushels, up 18 per cent from last year.

In another report, based on word from a U.S. team just back from an inspection of drought-stricken Soviet fields, officials cut their estimate of the 1975 Soviet grain harvest to 180 million tons, 5 million below a previous forecast. Officials said this means Russia will have to import about 25 million tons instead of the 20 million previously predicted.

Total U.S. grain production, in comparison, was put at 278 million tons, including 71 million tons of wheat, rye and rice and 207 million tons of corn and other livestock feed grains.

Officials declined to speculate on how much additional grain might be sold to Russia beyond the 9.8 million tons already committed.

No leads for FBI in Hoffa search

DETROIT (UPI) — The FBI does not know if James R. Hoffa is "living or dead" and has no promising leads in the 12-day-old search for the former Teamsters Union president, an FBI spokesman said Monday.

"At the present time we have no information as to the present whereabouts of Mr. Hoffa," Jay Bailey, special FBI agent in charge of Detroit, told newsmen. "We have no information that he is living or dead. We do not know at this point in our investigation whether his disappearance was voluntary or otherwise."

Asked if the FBI is acting on the assumption that Hoffa is still alive, Bailey said, "We have no positive information either way."

"Of course, as you well know, with the passage of time the apprehension does grow," Bailey said. "But rest assured we have full determination that our men are working around the clock to determine what really happened."

U.S. Attorney Ralph Guy ordered a federal grand jury probe of Hoffa's disappearance. He said he will begin issuing subpoenas to "uncooperative witnesses" later this week.

"There is nothing magic about a grand jury," Guy said. "But it does have the contempt charge if a witness refuses to testify."

Late Monday, Hoffa's son, James P. Hoffa, said authorities have "interviewed extensively" an individual who claims he was an eyewitness to the abduction at the Machus Red Fox restaurant.

"He's an interesting witness. He has given us substantial leads which have been followed up carefully," Hoffa told newsmen.

The younger Hoffa declined to elaborate or to answer any questions.

An FBI spokesman, commenting on Hoffa's report, said, "We have no knowledge of a witness to the abduction of Mr. Hoffa."

James P. Hoffa also said he had given an interview to a southern California radio station because "we feel there is evidence to be made available" in that area.

"We think we are going to have a successful solution to this crime," he said.

President acted outside law

Court overrules Ford's oil import fee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal appeals court Monday overturned President Ford's $2 per barrel oil import fee that many oil companies used to justify recent gasoline price rises.

The court ruled that Ford and his predecessor, Richard M. Nixon, did not have the power to act outside the law just because they decided there was a national emergency.

The Federal Energy Administration had estimated the $2 fee on each barrel of imported oil intended to reduce consumption by raising prices — had increased gasoline prices about 3 cents per gallon to consumers.

The levy, called a "licensing fee," was designed to go as high as $3 per barrel, but Ford delayed the final $1 in an attempt to compromise with Congress on energy conservation.

The first dollar was imposed on imports in February, which some consumer groups and oil companies said led to price increases for home heating fuel, especially in the Northeast. The second dollar increase was in June.

Meanwhile, Chairman Al Ullman of the House Ways and Means Committee said Ford "should move immediately to roll back the oil import fees," rather than wait 21 days as he is permitted to do under the court order.

"The fees to date have already forced an inflationary round of gasoline and petroleum product price increases," he told reporters. "They have also slowed the nation's economic recovery."

Ullman noted that Ford has also urged decontrol of oil prices. "Under any circumstances, if oil is decontrolled, it would be disastrous to the consumer and the economy to keep the import fees in effect," he said.

A spokesman for Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., a party to the suit, said the plaintiffs would ask for a speed-up in the time the court's order would take effect, cutting the time to 10 days instead of 21. He also said they would seek a refund for consumers for the estimated $1.5 billion already collected by the fees, perhaps in the nature of a "reverse fuel adjustment" for utility bills.

Portuguese Reds saved from mob

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Marines firing rifles and throwing percussion grenades battled an anti-Communist lynch mob in the northern city of Braga Monday to rescue 20 Communists, capping 24 hours of rioting in which 50 persons were injured.

The rioting was the worst so far in four weeks of violence triggered by mounting opposition to the Communist-backed minority government of Prime Minister Vasco Gonçalves.

"The Communists must die!" protesters shouted before the marines arrived.

A Braga hospital spokesman said that since Sunday evening 50 persons had been treated for gunshot and grenade fragment wounds, tear gas inhalation and other injuries.

The spokesman said all but six were released after treatment but one policeman was listed in critical condition with a bullet wound in the lung.

Late Monday police said the streets of Braga had returned to near normal, although there were rumors of new attacks being planned. Policemen and national guardsmen were on patrol, but troops were recalled to barracks.

Opposition to Gonçalves has spread through the military and units have been voting on a manifesto denouncing his policies.

Lisbon newspapers reported some units giving sweeping votes of no confidence to the current government policies and the marines used to rescue the Communists were from leftist units loyal to Gonçalves.

Cuba returns $1.9 million in hijack ransom to U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuba has returned nearly $2 million ransom paid to three hijackers of a Southern Airways flight in 1972, Chairman John Sparkman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee announced Monday.

Sparkman, at a news conference, urged the administration to respond with "a staged removal" of the U.S. embargo against Cuba, including elimination of all restrictions on trade in food and medicine.

U.S. votes bar Viets from U.N. Speculation mounting that Mideast peace pact near

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States Monday cast two vetoes in the U.N. security council to bar South and North Vietnam from the United Nations.

The two votes were 13-1 in favor of admission, with the U.S. vetoes sufficient to kill the resolution. Costa Rica abstained from both ballots.

President Ford said last week the United States would agree to full U.N. membership for the two Vietnams only if South Korea was admitted simultaneously.

Although some countries — Italy, Britain, France and Japan among them — supported Ford's package deal they also voted for admission of the Hanoi and Saigon governments, both now Communist.

The vetoes were the eighth and ninth the United States has cast in the United Nations. The Soviet Union has used its veto power 110 times, Britain 11, France 6, China 2 and Nationalist China 1 when it represented all of China.

By United Press International Israel sent two high-level officials to Washington Monday to discuss details of a second Sinai interim peace agreement, prompting speculation an Israeli-Egyptian settlement was near.

Israeli newspapers raised the possibility of new peace talks between Israel and Syria.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said U.S. Ambassador Hermann F. Eilts delivered Israel's latest proposals to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and received the Egyptian reply after several hours of talks with Sadat and Foreign Minister Ismail at the presidential residence at Ras el-Hikma, about 140 miles west of Alexandria.

The sources said the negotiations were making "satisfactory progress."

Eilts returned to Cairo Monday night and immediately filed a report to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, they said.

Israeli officials in Tel Aviv said they expected Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to resume his Middle East shuttle diplomacy next week to seal the agreement after nearly two months of bargaining.

Two top Israeli negotiators, Mordechai Gazit, outgoing director-general of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's office, and Meir Rosen, legal advisor to the foreign ministry, left Tel Aviv for a meeting with Under Secretary of State Joseph Sisco to draft the legal language of a new Sinai pact.

"This trip is within the framework of the efforts to achieve an agreement," Gazit told reporters before at Ben Gurion Airport. "One should not look at it as a dramatic turning point but as one of the steps in the process of getting an agreement."

Another Israeli delegation left for Washington Sunday to begin discussions on a $3 billion aid package, including $2.5 billion in economic and military aid. In addition, Israel wants $350 million annually in compensation for the return to Egypt of the Abu Rweis oil fields and another $150 million for construction of a new defense line in the Sinai.

The diplomatic sources in Cairo said U.S. Ambassador Hermann F. Eilts delivered the latest Israeli proposals to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy.

Both Egyptian and American officials remained silent on the progress of negotiations, but the sources said they saw signs of "accelerated movement."

Bag of tricks ready to catch speeders

HARRISBURG (UPI) — That innocent-looking bush along the side of the road may nab you if you're speeding.

State troopers in Pennsylvania, frustrated by truckers and motorists using citizen band radios, are fighting back. Troop commanders on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and interstate highways have orders from Harrisburg to open the bag of tricks troopers can use to stop speeders.

And that bag includes "unconventional vehicles" and well disguised radar traps that clock speed as cars and trucks pass.

"We're not interested in making arrests, but when people violate the law, we have to make arrests," said James Cox, state police spokesman.

"People think this is a game, you know, beat the trooper, but it's not. We are talking about deaths and maiming and disfigurement."

Cox said the state police decided to change their tactics because motorists — particularly truckers — are forgetting the 55 mph speed limits that the turnpike and interstate highways are carrying.

And that has led to a disturbing increase in the number of accidents, injuries and deaths that the troopers attribute to excessive speed.

"We had one trucker who was stopped going 75 in a 55 zone three times within several miles," Cox said. "This is the kind of thing we're going after."

Cox said the troopers' job is made more difficult by the fact that Pennsylvania's fine for speeding — only $15 — is not much of a deterrent. The state's point system does not affect out of state drivers who break the law.

He said the department is backing changes in the motor vehicle code that would make the fine for speeding $50, with an additional $1 charge for every mile the driver goes over the speed limit.

But until those changes are approved, according to Cox, the troopers will be using a whole spectrum of tactics to catch speeders.

Boston school opening delayed

BOSTON — The federal judge directing desegregation by busing Monday ordered a five day delay in the scheduled Sept. 3 opening of Boston public schools. U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity ordered the postponement from Sept. 3 to Sept. 8 to allow sufficient time for completion of classroom assignments. The order came one day after a crowd of some 5,000 blacks and whites confronted each other at a South Boston beach before being broken up by hundreds of police. Boston schools opened amid violence last fall during the first phase of desegregation through court ordered busing. This year Garrity is implementing the second phase of the desegregation.

'Cannonball' buried

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Julian "Cannonball" Adderley, whose saxophone held "the savage beast" at bay, was buried Monday to the soft strains of the jazz he made famous. The 1,800 persons who attended his funeral services at Florida A&M University left the service to a recording of "Somewhere," one of Adderley's softest and most famous songs. Singer Nancy Wilson, Adderley's brother Nat, a noted coronet player, and members of the Cannonball Adderley Quintet were present.

Ford hits links

VAIL, Colo. — President Ford, looking relaxed and in good spirits as he began his vacation, played golf in bright sunshine Monday at a lush public course nestled 8,000 feet high in the Rocky Mountains. "I think I'll take that," he declared with a hearty laugh after hitting his first shot down the left side of the fairway and watching the ball take a good bounce. Ford, staying with his wife Betty at a Swiss-style chalet, drove to the course at midmorning. About 50 spectators watched the President tee off with Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers, White House physician William Lukash and Vail golf pro Bob Wolfe.

Faction leaves Angola capital

LUANDA, Angola — The second of three black liberation factions competing for control of Angola pulled out of Luanda Monday, leaving the Soviet-backed Popular Liberation Movement in possession of a besieged capital city running out of food and fuel supplies. Portuguese military sources said the collapse of the transitional government could tempt the Popular Movement, led by Dr. Agostinho Neto, to declare independence unilaterally before Lisbon's scheduled exit from the rich west African territory on Nov. 11. The moderate National Union for the Total Independence of Angola said its government members were "leaving the capital now." Its troops already have departed for the movement's southern strongholds.

Von Braun hospitalized

BALTIMORE — Wernher von Braun, 63, the German-born rocket scientist who became the father of the American space program, was reported in satisfactory condition Monday at Johns Hopkins Hospital, but hospital officials declined to reveal the nature of his illness. There were published reports Monday that von Braun had a kidney ailment and that he had undergone surgery during the weekend. There were no indications of the seriousness of the ailment. Von Braun, one of the German scientists who developed the V-2 rockets during World War II, moved to the United States after the German surrender. He worked on development of the Saturn rocket which carried American astronauts to the moon at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala.

Congress gets pay hike

VAIL, Colo. — Pay increases for vice president Nelson A. Rockefeller, members of Congress, the Cabinet, the Supreme Court and other high-level government officials were signed into law Monday by President Ford. Ford had strongly endorsed the legislation which Congress rushed through before leaving on a month-long recess. The bill gives the government's top level officers, whose pay has been frozen since 1969, the same percentage increases approved for civil service employees. The amount of the increases is still to be settled. The Bureau of Labor Standards told Ford it would take an 8.6 per cent increase to provide civil service employees with salaries comparable to those in the private sector.

Plastic packages under fire

WASHINGTON — The Food and Drug Administration may ban some plastic food packages, such as vegetable oil bottles and some meat wrappers, because of a potential cancer link, a spokesman said Monday. In addition, he said the agency is also about to explore the question of whether water pipes made of the same plastic, polyvinyl chloride, also pose a health risk to the millions of homes around which they are in use.

Female juror weeps after testimony from Joan Little

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Joan Little, her voice wracked with sobs, told a jury Monday that jailer Clarence Alligood used an icepick to force her to submit to his sexual demands and when he dropped it, she picked it up and stabbed him. But the 21-year-old black woman said that Alligood was alive, staring at her with a "silly-looking grin," when she dressed and fled the Beaufort County jail.

First Lady's comments cause busy switchboard

VAIL, Colo. (UPI) — Betty Ford's televised statement she "wouldn't be surprised" if her daughter Susan had an affair has prompted a number of pro and con telephone calls to the White House — mostly con, her press secretary said Monday. Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld said Mrs. Ford is not retracting her comment on the CBS television program "60 Minutes," but said what Mrs. Ford really meant was "she would not kick her daughter out" if Susan came home and said she was having a love affair. Mrs. Weidenfeld said Mrs. Ford meant she would talk to her daughter and help her in any way she could. The telephone calls began lighting up the White House switchboard Sunday night after Mrs. Ford's taped interview was shown. Mrs. Weidenfeld said some of the callers "congratulated Mrs. Ford on her forthright opinions, but most of the calls objected to" her stand. Mrs. Ford has won the hearts of women's libbers by taking strong stands in favor of the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion and the use of marijuana. Longtime White House observers said her frank and candid views are unprecedented except for perhaps Eleanor Roosevelt, who also spoke out on the issues of the day.

Philly school busing plans to be unveiled by court

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Commonwealth Court today unveils two competing school enrollment plans for Philadelphia, biggest and one of the last centers of opposition in the state to busing for desegregation. One Philadelphia plan was charted by the Philadelphia School District and the other by the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission. Commonwealth Court Judge Theodore Rogers will conduct hearings on both plans in Philadelphia.

Another lottery for Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Pennsylvanians will have another new lottery to spend money on in September. It'll be called "Lucky Lotto" and gives even born losers a chance to win. Lynn R. Nelson, acting executive director of the lottery bureau, said Monday the new game will run for 13 weeks. It will also be televised. Tickets will cost $1 and drawings will be held weekly for a top prize of $5,000 and $500 a month for life. Other prizes range from free tickets up to $10,000. Lucky Lotto will replace Pennsylvania's current "Instant Lottery," which is expected to end in September. Tickets for the new game go on sale Sept. 16, with the first drawing scheduled Sept. 25. "The new game is probably Pennsylvania's most complex, confusing lottery to date. Here is how it works: Every ticket will have three color-coded sections (red, white and blue) that each contain six numbers. Red section numbers will range from 01 to 93, white section from 34 to 66 and blue from 67 to 99. During the half-hour televised show, 13 red, eight white and seven blue numbers will be selected. Tickets that match any six of the 13 red numbers will win $50. Tickets that match any six of the eight white numbers will win $1,000. If the ticket matches six of the seven blue numbers, the holder wins $10,000. For the born loser, there is a $50 prize if none of the numbers drawn match the numbers of his ticket. There are also two bonus numbers at the bottom of the ticket to the left. One bonus number will be drawn each week. The ticket that matches that number wins $5.

Mars probe delayed by sticking valve

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A stuck two-inch valve, similar to the one in a bathroom sink, forced a three-day delay Monday in the launch of a Viking spacecraft on a $1 billion, 505-million-mile search for life on Mars. Nearly four hours after the defective valve was discovered in the guidance mechanism of the rocket motors strapped to the Titan's first stage, space agency officials announced the launch was re-scheduled for Thursday at 5:08 p.m. EDT. NASA scientists said the three-day delay in the launch would not prevent the Viking spacecraft from touching down on Mars on July Fourth, 1976. In fact, because of movement of the planets, it will arrive in orbit a day earlier—on June 15—than if it had been launched Monday. NASA allowed two weeks in its schedule for orbiting around Mars while scientists examine photos from the spacecraft to make certain the selected landing area is safe for the bicentennial touchdown. The problem in the valve was discovered during a test less than two hours before the scheduled 4:59 p.m. EDT launch Monday. "We got a 'no go' signal that the valve did not respond properly," said Air Force Maj. Wesley West, chief of operations for the Titan launch. He said the valve, which he described as about two inches in diameter and "not unlike a valve in your sink in your bathroom," was stuck in the open position. "If we flew with the valve in that position it would simply drain fuel out of the tank," West said.

Argentina changes cabinet

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentine President Isabel Peron swore in her third cabinet in one month Monday, giving the armed forces a strong voice in the government for the first time since 1973. The cabinet reshuffle came in the midst of a mounting economic, political and social crisis. Army Lt. Col. Vicente Damasco, former secretary general to the government, was named Interior Minister. He became the first military man in the Peronist government. Earlier Monday, the entire eight-man civilian cabinet resigned to allow Mrs. Peron to form a new government. Looking tired and thin, Mrs. Peron swore in, besides Damasco, Angel F. Robledo, a former defense minister who was recently named ambassador to Brazil, as foreign minister; Pedro Jose Arrighi, former dean of the state university, as education minister; Carlos Ruckauf, former high official of labor ministry, as minister of labor; and Carlos Emery, former agricultural and livestock secretary, was sworn in as social welfare minister. Political sources said Mrs. Peron would keep Defense Minister Jorge Garrido and Justice Minister Ernesto Corvalan Nancrales and would name Corvalan Nancrales interim economy minister, replacing Pedro Bonanni who had come under increasing fire from business and labor leaders. Mrs. Peron shook hands with all the ministers and immediately left the white room where the ceremony was held. She gave no speech. Argentina's staggering economic crisis and related political chaos prompted the president to change her cabinet.

to the courts and without violence. Court-ordered busing has added only 677 students to buses in the state in seven years, with another 15,000 bused as a "result of compliance with HRC-Education Department requests. "I think it's very pleasing that almost all the small and medium-sized districts that were not in compliance in 1968, now are complying, and in many cases on a voluntary basis," said Education Secretary John Pittenger. "There has been relatively little progress in Pittsburgh and none at all in Philadelphia but I don't say that critically because the problems in both are enormous," he said.

The first Pennsylvania school district desegregated by court order was a small district in Delaware County. The second will be the Erie City School District, beginning its Commonwealth Court-ordered desegregation plan in September. Desegregation of the Uniontown Area schools is also slated for this September, as is — barring further appeal — a Commonwealth Court-ordered desegregation plan for Norristown. Two other districts — New Castle and New Kensington Arnold — implemented desegregation plans last year. Pittsburgh School District representatives have met periodically with HRC officials since 1972 in attempts to resolve desegregation problems, but the HRC recently asked Pittsburgh to respond by Sept. 5 with specific plans for implementation.

YOU ARE NOT ALONE.

When it comes to using electricity, local residents are not alone in their efforts to, "wait until eight."

Hundreds of businesses, industries, institutions and local governments are working hard at developing programs to reschedule their use of electricity to after 8 p.m. For many of these companies and institutions it has involved some inconveniences and a substantial investment in dollars and man-hours in making changes necessary to achieve energy-management.

These business and community leaders know that their time and money is going to be well spent. In the long run they are going to end up saving money because their actions are helping to keep any future increases in the cost of electricity to a minimum. Follow the example of some sharp business minds who know a good thing when they see it... try to reschedule some of your uses of electricity such as clothes washing, drying, dish washing and baking to after 8 p.m.

Junior firefighters keep pace

Chasing fires except on school nights

By RUTH VINCE
Pocono Record Reporter
MOUNT POCONO — Being a part of their community is important to five young men, in fact it is so important they have undertaken the responsibility of preservation of life and property in their own and adjacent communities.

Randy Altemose, age 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Altemose; Dave Lansdowne, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lansdowne; Leroy Nauman, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Nauman; and Jeff Woehrl, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Woehrl are all junior firemen with the Pocono Mountain Volunteer Fire Company in Mount Pocono.

These young men are learning well and already show the confidence and stamina of their leaders.

Altemose, captain, and Lansdowne, secretary-treasurer, of the junior division, both have a proud heritage to follow. Their grandfather, Ernest Bisbing was one of the founders of the Pocono Mountain company. Altemose's father is past chief of the parent company.

All of the young firefighters are students at Pocono Mountain High School and are employed during the summer. Each said he was looking forward to becoming a member of the senior company.

Altemose works at Camp Tegawitha. He said, "It is a great feeling knowing we are being trained to save life and property. It makes me feel good when people come up to me after a fire and thank me for a job well done."

"Someone has to do it," he added. "I'm proud to be a part of my community."

Lansdowne who works at Brock's Pharmacy said, "It's a pretty good feeling helping people."

Nauman, president of the junior organization works at Memorytown USA as a maintenance man said he is helping out in the community and helping the parent company, this is important to him.

way and mows lawns. "My dad is in the fire company and its good working and training with the men. They are real nice guys," he said. Hay said he derives much satisfaction from working together and getting a job done.

Although Woehrl was not present for the interview, the other young men said he felt the same way as they did.

All of the young firemen said they have a good relationship with the members of the parent company and look up to them for leadership.

The boys noted their primary objective is to receive training and fire fighting knowledge and to aid the parent company.

However, prior to the carnival the boys help in setting up and during the two weeks of the carnival they are in charge of stands and proceeds are used to purchase their equipment.

Members must be 14 years of age and no older than 18. At the age of 18 they can join the senior company.

Each young man must be of good moral character and take part in a major portion of the functions of the fire company.

Junior members are first accepted for a trial period of six months. Although they have voice and a vote in all functions, they cannot hold an office until the probationary period has been satisfactorily completed.

Besides his duties as a junior fireman, Nauman, as president of the organization has the responsibility of presiding at all meetings, appoints necessary committees, and supervises the general interest of the junior division.

Altemose, as captain, has command over the organization and takes charge subject to order and commands from the senior firemen.

Lansdowne, as secretary-treasurer, must keep accurate minutes, attend to all correspondence, and has custody of all documents.

Like their parent company it is the duty of these junior firefighters to respond to fire and emergency calls, attend drills, parades, and other activities.

After responding to a fire members return to quarters and service the equipment for further readiness.

Because of their age no junior fireman is allowed to respond to an alarm between midnight and five a.m. on school nights unless they are needed.

Like their parent company members they are considered on duty when attending meetings, working at a fire, and attending drills.

Dave Carey, fire chief of the senior company, noted that he has no reservations at all about the young men. "They are darn good, show interest, and work well together."

The junior's have been assigned their own support vehicle. They take pride in the fact that it's their total responsibility for maintenance of truck and equipment.

"These boys are serious about their duties and spend a lot of time taking care of their equipment," Carey said.

"We train with the junior division every Monday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., with one Monday for a business meeting," Carey explained.

The junior men have class room instruction during winter months. Here they learn all phases of fire fighting, operation of breathing apparatus, electrical hazards, ladder and hose techniques, how to enter a burning building, and use of forceable entry tools.

In the class room along with using tools, transparencies are used. Practical work is done outdoors during good weather.

Because of their availability, the junior men are usually the first to respond to brush fires where they man the Indian tanks.

No junior fireman is allowed to ride on the outside of any truck and because of their age no one is allowed to drive.

Carey noted that if any of the young men were old enough and had a drivers license he would have "no reservations about letting them drive."

"We have some senior men who were junior members at one time," Carey remarked. "It's a good program and we want to get more young men interested."

"We'd like all to become senior men, but even if we only get a couple of the junior men into the senior company it will be worthwhile," Carey concluded.

Mike Reed is the advisor for the junior division. He said the young men are trying hard, willing to learn, and generate lots of interest.

Reed too would like to see more young men become interested and join the junior division.

According to the advisor, the boys are interested in using their own initiative to raise money for their own equipment and uniforms.

"They work well together," Reed said. "They are a fine group of boys."

Maybe it takes a special type of person to become a fireman.

Drug unit faces cuts in budget

STROUDSBURG — The Tri-County Drug and Alcohol program has been forced to reduce its budget by over $43,000 because of a cut in funding from the Governor's Council on Drug and Alcohol Abuse.

The current budget of $275,822 was fashioned from an original budget of $319,488.

The reduction resulted from eliminating plans to hire an education specialist for Monroe and Carbon counties and from reducing funds for residential treatment and advertising.

The D&A program is to receive $234,231 in funds from the governor's council and $15,841 from the counties of Carbon, Monroe and Pike on a five, four and one per cent basis respectively, as well as other grants.

Michael Nestor, D & A specialist, said the program "is at least on a par" with other regions in the state.

The original budget was approved by the tri-county council in May and sent to the commissioners of the three counties for their approval.

The proposed budget was reviewed by the governors council on July 18 and returned for trimming. The state council suggested a nine per cent increase over last year's funding.

Nestor said this year's budget reflects the nine per cent increase over last year's state allocation of $214,891. Last year's total budget was about $247,000, he said.

Area notes

KRESGEVILLE — The Polk Township Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor a breakfast from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. Aug. 31 and it will be served by the firemen. On the menu are, eggs, pancakes, bacon, ham, sausage and coffee. Admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children under 12.

BANGOR — The Bangor Area Senior High School Marching Band will rehearse at 7 p.m. Aug. 12, 13 and 14, according to John Farley, director. Members are to report to the band room and are urged to be present for all rehearsals.

Lehigh ruffles up for canoeists

WHITE HAVEN — On Saturday, 16 August, the Upper Lehigh River will be available for canoeing enthusiasts to enjoy white water conditions, the second of four white water Saturdays scheduled during the summer and fall.

Other events this year will be held on 20 September and 18 October.

The 1975 program has been coordinated by the canoeing associations of Pennsylvania and Eastern United States, the State Department of Environmental Resources and the Fish Commission, and the Philadelphia District Army Engineers.

For each event scheduled, releases of 750 cubic feet per second will be made from the F.E. Walter Dam located above White Haven, Pa. During these events, recreational activities at the dam, such as fishing and boating, will not be hampered by the closing of the access road across the reservoir or the boat launching area.

In the event of rainfall producing heavy runoff just prior to the scheduled event and causing a sudden rise in the reservoir pool, the road and boat launching area will be closed for public safety. On such occasions water will either be released or stored under the projects Flood Control Regulation procedures.

Should extremely low flow conditions exist on the downstream Lehigh River an evaluation will be made prior to the event, which may result in either cancelling or rescheduling it when flow conditions are more normal.

The Lehigh River is considered to be one of the finest and scenic canoeing rivers in the Eastern United States. It is essential that all participants be familiar with the handling of their craft and exercise all aspects of water safety at all times. They should also show due respect for other forms of recreation occurring along the river and refrain from polluting the stream or camping areas along its banks.

It is recommended that those unfamiliar with the river and not members of organized canoe clubs consult one of these organizations before attempting a run. Information about the Lehigh River, canoeing organizations and future schedules can be obtained from Mr. Matthew N. Lauck, Canoeing Coordinator, Buck Ridge Club, 416 Grant Avenue, Pitman, New Jersey 08071, Telephone (609) 299-5000, ext. 3265.

Hearing problems

A fascinating method for the early detection of hearing problems in infants is being tried at Boston University's Sargent College.

Here, Dr. Delmar Anderson measures the range of the cries of infants with a computerized device. He has found that hearing problems can be anticipated by the sound range of the cry.

Based on his past experience and the ongoing studies, Dr. Anderson believes that the same technique may also be applied to the detection of speech problems.

Sometimes it is imperative for the doctor to know how much of a prescribed drug the patient retains in his system.

This is particularly important in children and adults who have epilepsy and are on a delicate drug regime.

Dr. John M. Pellock, working at the Presbyterian Hospital in New York City, uses a color, or chromatography, technique for the rapid study of drugs in a patient's body.

It is now possible to gain this valuable information within hours, rather than days, so that constant adjustment of the drug levels may be established.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. Coleman, M.D., (Ulcer Booklet), P.O. Box 5178 Grand Central Station, New York City 10017.

Planned Fort Dix closing 'punishment' for Northeast?

By MARK BROWN
Ottawa News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The name "Fort Dix" instantly rings a bell. It seems that just about everyone from the Northeast who spends time in the Army goes through the induction center at the New Jersey base.

At least that's the way it used to be, because the Army has now decided that the basic training center at Fort Dix will be phased out over the next three years.

Beginning in 1978, all recruits will be doing their basic combat and advanced infantry training at bases in the South — if the Pentagon can persuade Congress to appropriate the necessary funds for the transfer.

Needless to say, Congress has not reacted with joy at the news that the only Army training station in the Northeast will be closed.

Some congressmen say the proposal smacks of the old "southern strategy" of the Nixon Administration, which was to punish the North and reward the South for its voting support.

Ever since Nixon ordered the Boston Naval Yard closed in 1973, just after Massachusetts was the only state to vote for George McGovern, a succession of military installations have been closed or transferred out of the Northeast, while the bases in the South have been strengthened, they point out.

The Army insists that the motives behind the Fort Dix proposal are economic, not political. One way or the other, the House subcommittee on military construction appropriations indicated during recent hearings that it is not too happy with the idea.

The basic argument presented by acting Army Secretary Norman R. Augustine was that today's Army is half the size of a year ago, and that with the end of the Vietnam war, training facilities will have to be cut back.

said, called "single unit training," where soldiers receive basic and advanced training at the same station.

It cuts down on disciplinary problems and produces a better soldier in a shorter training period, eventually saving the government a lot of money, Augustine claimed.

He added that Fort Dix is too small to fit in the Army's plans, so the recruit training will be transferred to Fort Benning, Ga. and Fort McClellan, Ala. Fort Dix would remain open, but not as an induction center, he said.

The military construction subcommittee, with an assist from the New Jersey congressional delegation, came up with a lot of reasons why Dix should not be closed, such as:

—The serious morale problem that could develop if soldiers looking for reassignment nearer home find out the Army does not have a place available in the Northeast. This could also cut down on volunteers from the Northeast.

—The acceptance of Fort Dix by the communities. In many eyes, the induction center is the major presence of the Pentagon in the Northeast.

—The economic value of the base to New Jersey, in terms of employment and related services.

—The soundness of training combat units in the warm climate of the South, even though the anticipated mission of many troops is cold Northern Europe.

The Army, which does not need congressional approval to implement the new training concept, promised to take these comments into consideration, but indicated little willingness to back off from the idea of closing the training center at Dix.

However, a majority of the military construction subcommittee said they would not approve the funds necessary for the Army to implement the transfer at this time.

So while it looks like Fort Dix will be spared for the time being, the northeastern congressmen know they have a lot of work ahead of them to keep the installation alive.

Our resources
all we have

As we approach the bicentennial of our nation, we might reflect on what made our country grow and prosper, and what lies ahead for us.

The most vital ingredient in our success formula, and one we tend to overlook, is the richness of the resources we inherited (or, if you prefer, took from the previous inhabitants, the Indians.)

While other lands were struggling with the problem of getting yet more sustenance out of overworked land, we had the advantage of continuing frontiers. We could overlook the poor land of some areas and surge onward to the richer opportunities offered by virgin forests and plains.

And then came the undetected and unsuspected riches of the mineral wealth lying under often-barren soil, awaiting only need and growing technology to be exploited. But we are running rapidly out of such bonanzas. Our land is thoroughly explored and exploited. The man who wants to get rich today cannot hope for the lucky stake-out. He must increasingly look toward his technological expertise and innovation to provide the "strike" that will make him wealthy and, incidentally, our nation richer and more powerful.

When we look for new frontiers to exploit, we must look backward. Unless we have a new scientific breakthrough to gamble on, we must cast another glance at the areas that were abandoned years, nay, decades ago as being unfit for anything that smacks of productive use.

So it was that our niche of the nation, what we call the Poconos (thanks to our late Indian friends) was bypassed by those of an earlier age that looked for good farming land. Of that, we have little. Mineral riches? We have precious little, as well. Scenic grandeur? Nothing to compare with the wild aspect of the northeastern coastline nor the magnificent grandeur of the western mountains.

But we have the proximity of the megalopolis. And so, because our land has not been developed, due in great part to the poverty of the soil, we are fortunate in this latest land-rush. Close to the great cities, we are nonetheless wild, woodsy and undeveloped. What does this mean? That we can capitalize on the newest need — the need of people for land on which to build, to escape from the heat (literally and figuratively) of the urban scene.

Because this is our opportunity, but since the land as we have known it is also our ward, its integrity our responsibility, we must take great care not to destroy our fragile resource even as we exploit it. It may seem stuffy to have all these studies and prohibitions on land use, but unless we have and accept such safeguards, we will have wasted our wherewithal as surely as those poor souls who saw coal strip-mined from their region, only to leave poverty and despoliation behind.

This is our land, all we have, and we must protect it as best we can. The fast dollar of today may seem attractive, but it will not mean very much to our children if in the making of it, we leave them nothing behind but a wasteland.

Money Book:
Food savings

(Eighth of 21 columns)

- If you make an error in buying furniture, you're almost surely stuck. It may take you years to correct your mistake and you'll probably come out with a painful loss. But if you make an error in buying fruit, you can quickly learn from your mistake and days later come out ahead when you again go shopping for food.
- Food is among the biggest items in our cost of living and it is the one area where you can start saving substantially from the day you determine to concentrate on so doing.
- To be specific, here are 20 keys to saving:
- (1) Plan before you go shopping. Always have a pad handy so you can note food items you need as your supplies run low.
  - (2) When your shopping list is ready, go over it to be sure you have chosen foods on the basis of their nutritional value — not on the basis of their "taste appeal."
  - (3) Avoid snacks — among the most expensive food extras you can buy. They can easily add 10 per cent to your weekly food bill but be among the least valuable nutritionally.
  - (4) Keep in mind — as you make out your food lists and actually shop for food — what you'll do with inevitable leftovers. If you plan to make split pea soup using a hambone, for example, buy the split peas when you buy the ham.
  - (5) If you possibly can, shop in person. If you shop by telephone, have food delivered to your home and charge these food purchases, you will pay for these conveniences — and the costs over a year will add up to whopping totals.
  - (6) Keep records of prices you're paying — particularly for such big items as meat — and shift your menus as prices dictate.
  - (7) Shop the specials and stock your freezer and pantry with foods you need or want when they are marked down.
  - (8) Consider quality in relation to your use of the food. If you're using corn as part of another dish, you'll do just as well with a less expensive form of corn.
  - (9) Check the prices of private vs. nationally advertised brands of foods. Every food chain and many independent stores sell private-label foods, at savings running to as much as 20 per cent.
  - (10) Check the containers with care when you buy frozen foods and never buy an item that is covered with frost.
  - (11) Buy such foods as meat by cost per portion rather than by over-all price. Divide the price of the amount you purchase by the number of portions the amount will supply.
  - (12) Buy such foods as bread or cereals by cost per ounce or pound. See which package offers the most weight for the identical price.

- (13) Compare package sizes in relation to how quickly you will consume the contents. The "family economy size" is no bargain to you if you end up throwing out a lot of leftovers.
- (14) Analyze the real cost of cooking from scratch. The cost of ingredients to prepare something at home may sometimes be more than the prepackaged equivalent — especially if staples are left over.
- (15) Save money by comparing different forms of food — fresh, canned, frozen, chilled, and dried.
- (16) Always remember the seasonal specials. But don't buy the first of a crop; prices will go down as the supply increases.
- (17) Weigh the cost of gasoline — and time — in choosing a supermarket. The least expensive supermarket in your area almost surely won't be the cheapest if you have to drive twice the distance to reach it.
- (18) Substitute among protein foods as prices dictate. Try beef or pork liver instead of calf's liver; poultry instead of red meats; bean, cheese and egg dishes instead of meat dishes.
- (19) Use the recipes and food-buying tips offered to you by the Department of Agriculture, your local consumer organization and your local newspaper's food editor.
- (20) Also use the Agriculture Department's publications, which are designed to help you — available from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. 20402.
- (21) Hunt for the nutrition bargains and don't overbuy meat. Use the guides developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture on the minimum amounts of each type of food we should consume daily for proper nutrition.

Stories Behind Words
By William Penfield

Tobacco

Early Spanish explorers of the New World observed that natives on some Caribbean islands lit the dried leaves of a certain plant and inhaled the smoke.

The Indians did not smoke in the same manner that pipe smokers do today — sucking the smoke into the mouth and then inhaling it. The Indians inhaled the smoke through Y-shaped tubes inserted in their nostrils.

The Spaniards asked about the name of the leaves. The Indians misunderstood and replied "tabaco," their name for the pipe. The Spaniards, unaware of the misunderstanding, accepted the reply as the name of the leaves.

Pigeonhole

It is evident that an apartment building requires less space and is cheaper to build than the same number of houses as there are apartments in the building.

Keepers of domesticated pigeons learned this centuries ago. Instead of building a little house for each pigeon or a pair of pigeons, they built one house and divided it into a number of compartments.

When small compartments were built into desks, cabinets and the like, the resemblance to the pigeon compartments was noted and such a recessed area was called a "pigeon-hole."

There have been people, I have found,
Who growled and sometimes they would shout
While others hardly made a sound,
Who had much more to growl about.

National Review's 20th

This fall, the conservative magazine National Review will celebrate its 20th anniversary, a moment of considerable significance in the history of both journalism and American politics.

Since I have been a contributor to the magazine since the early 1960s and one of its two senior editors since 1969, this column may well be considered biased. Very well, I intend to go right ahead and bias away.

Back in 1955 when the magazine was founded by William F. Buckley Jr. and a few kindred spirits, the U.S. did have a fair number of conservative intellectuals, journalists, and academics, but they were completely on the defensive culturally.

Liberal-left opinion exercised total domination over all prestige publishing houses and over all periodical journalism. A conservative article could no more appear in Harper's or The Atlantic Monthly than it could in the New Republic, The Nation, or Partisan Review. Dissent from liberal-left orthodoxy was not only outside the pale intellectually — it was felt to be virtually a breach of good manners, an affront to be taken personally.

What Buckley brought into being with National Review was a single, well conceived organ, a kind of clearing house actually, in which the varieties of conservative thought could get a hearing. And those varieties are various indeed: Protestant and Catholic traditionalist, monarchist even, realpolitik, free market economics, philosophical libertarian, Southern regionalist, Constitutional theorists, Burkeans, orthodox Republicans and defecting Democrats, even anti-Communist socialists.

As may be imagined, any such collection of positions is in perpetual danger of undergoing nuclear fission. Add to that the fact that many conservative intellectuals — like many intellectuals of any kind — are thorny, vain, stubborn, neurotic, lecherous and/or alcoholic, and you have some idea of Buckley's accomplishment in holding this critical mass somewhere this side of detonation. And not only that, actually producing a first-rate magazine.

Everyone is aware of Bill's gifts as a writer and as a public presence on TV. Perhaps his special genius, in my view, lies in personal relations. Conservatives are stereotypically thought to be dogmatic, but he is almost infinitely patient and tolerant. He can get along with anyone who is not an absolute human war-hog. Intellectual disagreements he takes in stride. He is friends with John Kenneth Galbraith and can even abide Norman Mailer.

An acquaintance of mine recently emerged from a liberal-chic cocktail party in Manhattan where he had found the company completely execrable. "Can you imagine," he mused, "a party at which the nicest person present was Arthur Schlesinger?"

Jeffrey Hart

Bill can get along with Arthur Schlesinger.

As recently as the middle 1960s, writing for National Review involved some career risk, especially for academics. I myself recall that when I was being considered for tenure at Columbia I was asked, point-blank by a well known senior professor whether, really, I would ever consider writing for National Review. We were in the men's room at the faculty club. Since at that very time a book review of mine was in the mail to the magazine, this was a memorable moment. If you wrote for the New Republic or even the far-left Nation, that was an academic plus. But not National Review.

Changed views

Today all that has changed. Moderate and conservative views are held by a substantial minority on most faculties. Out in the general population, moderates and conservatives constitute a clear majority, and liberal intellectuals know it, angrily or ruefully.

National Review, during the mid-'60s, experienced a huge jump in circulation, and it attracts first-rate advertising. It is widely quoted editorially, all across the country. A number of widely syndicated columnists are associated with it.

Liberalism, meanwhile, has lost its old imperial assurance. It has undergone decomposition. Some former liberals freaked out in the direction of the New Left. Others, associated with Commentary and The Public Interest, as well as a variety of independents, have moved right, and moved publicly. But an astonishing number of liberals are now conservative in private conversation.

During the 20 years of its existence, National Review has been a lively, yes, an indispensable organ, and no one except Bill Buckley could have nurtured it.

More FBI errors

Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

Mafia "with their machines in their warehouses," is mysteriously missing from the transcript.

— A Mafia informant, talking to a T-man about a payoff case, is asked: "Did you tell the FBI anything about these payoffs and anything?" The mobster replies: "Yes . . . Yeah." But in the FBI transcript, he is quoted as saying "No." Nowhere on the tape is there a sound that could be mistaken for "No."

— An underworld fireworks dealer describes how his boss "always hires a few of the fire marshals" to cover up criminal fireworks sales. This reference to bribery also is deleted from the transcript.

— On one tape, a federal agent quotes "a guy from AID" as saying that "everybody at every level is taking their cut" of U.S. shipments to Vietnam. Unaccountably, the FBI transcript turns the quote around. "Everybody never knows who's taking a cut," states the FBI version.

The transcripts are also littered with Keystone Kops errors. In a reference to gangster Paul Coppola, there is a line about putting "up a witness bond to appear at Paul Coppola's trial." This appears in the FBI transcript as "up to Kichenape to appear in front of a Polish trial."

The term "bag man" is transcribed by the FBI as "bad man," and the crime of "shylocking" comes out "skylocking." A reference to "a soldier, you know, sneaks through enemy lines" is recorded in the transcript as "a sager who speaks the enemy line."

The phrase, "the rest of the members," is translated by the FBI astonishingly as "Richard Nixon." The name "Diddinger," perhaps in memory of past FBI glory, becomes "Dillinger." And the name of a California businessman, Charles Rulapaugh, is transcribed as "rule applys."

The phrase, "I was fired, Mr. Simpkins," becomes "You despise Mr. Simpkins" in the transcript. An ex-FBI agent William Turner, who wrote an unfavorable book about the late J. Edgar Hoover, is described in the tapes as "just interested in . . . prosecuting." But it appears in the FBI transcript as "just interested in . . . prostitution."

Among the comic mistakes are also some that are chilling. At one point, a tape contains this warning from Bast about a mob informer: "To be quite frank, his life is in danger."

In the FBI transcript, the phrase reads: "Unintelligible."

WASHINGTON — FBI chief Clarence Kelley, whose square jaw is replacing the late J. Edgar Hoover's bulldog visage as a symbol of law and order, has strengthened the FBI, restored its morale and corrected past abuses.

Our assessment of Kelley may be noteworthy, since we were the first to expose Hoover's excesses. We told how the FBI, under Hoover, kept files on prominent Americans, photocopied their private papers, obtained their bank records without subpoenas and even committed burglaries.

Now we have uncovered another scandal, which Kelley inherited. We have established that FBI transcripts, marked as evidence and distributed to prosecutors and judges, are loaded with errors.

With the help of Washington's renowned private detective Richard Bast, we have reviewed 150,000 words in FBI transcripts and have found more than 30,000 errors. One 136-page transcript contained 6,500 goofs.

Yet these transcripts were distributed for use in criminal and civil cases to various FBI offices, the Justice Department and courts. Although an FBI spokesman explained that the transcripts were merely rough drafts, they were stamped "Evidence" not "Drafts."

The circulation of grossly erroneous transcripts as FBI evidence strikes at the heart of the judicial process. In the name of justice, proper precautions should be taken to ensure their accuracy.

Even more serious than the errors are the omissions. For example, the tapes contain references to crimes that should have been investigated, yet these crucial references don't appear in the FBI transcripts. Here are a few examples:

Bast put Treasury agents together with a Mafia contact and taped the interview. The mobster gave evidence of a "violation of the mails." The tape was later transcribed by the FBI, but mention of the postal violation strangely was omitted.

Two references to a 10 per cent kick-back, which a Mafia middleman had collected from a major New York shipping firm, were left out of the FBI transcript.

In one tape, a Mafia courier tells how he and his pals had fooled FBI agents who had been keeping them under surveillance. Under the noses of the agents, boasts the courier, the mobsters had smuggled in "enough explosives in the truck to blow up . . . Union Station." This part of the courier's confession doesn't appear in the FBI transcript.

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — The new theatrical season will be upon us before we know it; last season Broadway was saved from an impoverishment of production by the English; almost a third of the 1974-75 season's offerings came from England, some complete even to sets, costumes and actors. It was pronounced a very good season, even if the Tony Awards make the alleged finish of the Bdw. season more than a trifle cheaply bedraggled, in the gaudy shallowness of the crisply produced evening of TV self-back-patting. Not to flog the dead horse, it would be honest to end the Bdw. stage season as properly and traditionally terminated on the first of June; ah, but the TV Tony spectacular needs a national audience to justify the big price producer Alex Cohen charges each season; ergo, the Bdw. stage season de facto and not de jure muscles the theatrical community into ending its fiscal year in March! It's an expedient stupidity. But — on to next season:

"Truckload" seems to be the season's curtain-raiser. It's about people hitchhiking across country via truck. Hugh Wheeler wrote the book, Louis St. Louis the tunes. Wes Harris wrote the lyrics. The Shuberts will produce with Adela Holzer getting her wallet in the door with an investment. It's due at the Shuberts' Lyceum Sept. 23.

Next night (Sept. 24) will arrive "The Soft Touch" at the Golden Theater. Kermit Bloomgarden owned rights for a while but let them go to Gene Persson and Sammy Schwartz. Neil Cuthbert is the author, Alan Arkin the director.

"The Fifth Season," a bright little 1953 comedy hit about the garment center opens Oct. 8 at the Eden, to be offered in both English and Yiddish; not simultaneously, you nut. Joseph Buloff of the original and many other plays West and East will direct and star.

Isaac Bashevis Singer's poignant "Yentl" opens Oct. 23 at the Eugene O'Neill. Yul Brynner's well-battered (coast to coast) "Odyssey" will try Bdw. anyway Nov. 11 at the Mark Hellinger; maybe. "Love Story" author Erich Segal wrote it, music by Mitch ("Man of La Mancha") Leigh.

Arthur Laurents has a chiller, "Scream," hardly a comedy, due Nov. 18, set 30 years after Auschwitz. Sylvia Sidney is starred. Stephen Sondheim ("A Little Night Music") will handle the score for "Pacific Overtures," about two Japanese families in the 19th century. John Weidman's the author and it will wind up at the Winter Garden Jan. 11.

"The Skin of Our Teeth" heads toward Bdw., the revival financed by the Xerox Co. in honor of Bicentennial Year. Elizabeth Ashley, Martha Scott and Alfred Drake will star; at the ANTA Theater sometime in Sept. "Bubbling Brown Sugar" wants an Oct., opening, a musical about the Jazz Age. "Burn," once titled "Hour of the Witch," is stoking up for a Nov. first night: it's by N.Y. Post reporter Tom Topor, set during the Inquisition (about a girl accused of witchcraft) with music and lyrics by Gary William Friedman and Will Holt.

The brilliant Sirs John Gielgud and Ralph Richardson will bring their London triumph "No Man's Land" to the Martin Beck Theater in Oct. It's by Harold Pinter, master of the enigmatic, set in a London drawingroom where a famous boozy writer and a minor poet talk it all over; and over.

Actor-turned hit playwright Tom Stoppard's "Travesties" also heads for an Oct. opening at the Ethel Barrymore; circa 1917, set in Switzerland, it aims to make politics and artistic revolution farcical; aren't they already? It's a presumably funny evaluation of James Joyce, Lenin and other historical rabble. David Merrick will produce.

James Whitmore, if he wins his battle for more salary, will star solo as Harry S. Truman in the one-man abrasive clowning, "Give 'Em Hell, Harry!" For late Oct., a limited run.

"Roberta" will be revived in Oct., hardly with the great cast originally assembled by Max Gordon (Bob Hope, Fred MacMurray, Tamara, Sidney Greenstreet, George Murphy, Fay Templeton) with an enchanting score by Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach (Smoke Gets in Your Eyes, You're Devastating, The Touch of Your Hand, Yesterdays, etc.).

Arnaud d'Usseau, who wrote "Deep Are the Roots" in wartime and not much else for the stage since (except the failed "Ladies of the Corridor" with co-playwright Dorothy Parker), will see his "Bledsoe" arrive in Oct., about an American writer ill in Rome who falls in love with a hospital nun.

Ann Landers

Dining gall

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to you because tonight was the last straw.

I've been in the restaurant business for 12 years — started as a dishwasher, then progressed to management. I've seen some pretty strange things in this line of work, but what happened this evening took first place.

About 6:30 p.m. a young couple came in. I seated them and went for the menus. When I returned they were already spooning Chinese food from cartons onto our dinner plates. They had purchased egg rolls and chop suey down the street from a carry-out place.

When they saw me standing there with the menus they ordered tea. I was so stunned I couldn't speak. I served the tea and clocked them. They stayed for about an hour, enjoying our linen napkins, water, salt and pepper, sugar and dinner rolls. No tip was left.

Something like this probably won't happen again for another 12 years, but if it does — what would you do if you were in my place? —

Speechless

Dear S.: I'd inform the clods that they should picnic elsewhere and then I'd usher them politely to the door.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to answer some of the questions asked by "You Know Me — I'm Your Wife," because I think I DO know her and she IS my wife.

The woman wrote, "My husband gave me the same thing again this year for my birthday. An argument."

I wonder if she remembers our early years. Every gift I ever bought for her was too big, too little, too loud, too ordinary, too foolish or too expensive.

She griped because "he gave me a broom and new linoleum for Christmas instead of something personal." Could it be that he did it because she took far more pride in the way the floors looked than in her own appearance?

Her final volley, "It hurts when the person I love most in the world won't even buy me a 10 cent card for my birthday." I can just see my wife's face if I ever handed her a 10 cent card. I'd never hear the end of it.

Thanks for letting me have my say. —

Feel Better Already

Dear F.B.A.: How would you feel if you knew I received nearly 100 letters from men who were certain that letter was written by THEIR wives? Have a nice day — all of you!

Loves life

By Jean Adams

SMILE: (COMMENT). I look at life with a smile. My friends and I get together at a little store where I work part time. We have a lot of fun there, but they think I'm crazy because I want to walk the mile and a half home.

I do not think I'm crazy for liking the summer night with its warm breeze, its lovely bright-lit sky, the smell of the forest.

I love life, this wonderful gift. What more could I want. As I look forward I see only happiness. How beautiful this thing called life. Did you know the more you smile the more smiles you will get? I am 18 and I like it. —

David W. Pressley, Fort Mill, S.C.

(A.) Few write me letters like yours. Most of the letters I get are negative. Yours is all positive. Positive is the way to be. Life is good. The world we live in is good. Maybe your letter will help some of those who read it to appreciate the gift of life. Thank you for writing it.

(Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of The Pocono Record, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Dr. Adams cannot send personal answers.)

EARN YOUR COLLEGE DEGREE IN TWO YEARS — ON WEEKENDS* (EVERY THIRD WEEKEND)

KEYSTONE JUNIOR COLLEGE

A fully-accredited, independent, co-educational college. Keystone is recognized as one of the finest two-year colleges in America.

ENJOY A FULLER LIFE . . . GET AHEAD IN YOUR JOB

If, for whatever reason, you have been unable to earn your college degree — and recognize that higher education can lead to a more satisfying career and a more rewarding life, THE WEEKENDER PROGRAM IS YOUR NEW OPPORTUNITY.

Courses to be offered include:

- MATHEMATICS • ECONOMICS • ASTRONOMY • WORLD CIVILIZATION • ENGLISH • PSYCHOLOGY • HEREDITY & EVOLUTION • AMERICAN HISTORY • BUSINESS ORGANIZATION • PUBLIC SPEAKING • ART APPRECIATION • PHILOSOPHY

The program leads to an ASSOCIATE IN ARTS DEGREE with your choice of concentration in either business administration or the liberal arts.

* earn 54 of the required 62 credits in the two-year program.

ATTEND CLASSES EVERY THIRD WEEKEND

Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday, you'll be taking college-level courses with teachers who'll challenge your interest and ability. You'll experience 18 hours of learning each weekend with time for relaxation and faculty consultation. Even if you are beyond the normal college age, your chances for success in the Weekender Program are excellent. Adult students have been among our best.

CONTINUE TO MEET CURRENT RESPONSIBILITIES

Many of you are not able to stop working or to give up family responsibilities. You won't have to with the Weekender Program. Continue working, attend classes and still have two out of every three weekends free. You'll also avoid the lengthy ordeal of night school.

LIVE ON CAMPUS OR COMMUTE

Benefit from the full college experience by spending Friday and Saturday nights in a completely-refurbished residential hall on Keystone's beautiful 60-acre campus, and by eating in the college's spacious dining room. Or if you prefer, commute daily to the college from your home. All college facilities and events will be open to Weekender Students.

WEEKENDER COSTS

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

LEO

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — A day for action! Be sure your energies are directed into constructive channels. Don't wait until errors are committed before you get better organized.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — A good period for introducing new ideas; also for developing those of others. Streamline your activities with both quality and productivity in mind.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — There's a tendency now to take off on tangents or useless ventures if you do not keep your mind on immediate objectives. Let moderation be your keyword today.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Some restraint in order. Also some rechecking of plans. Prospects brightening in several areas. Be sure to make the most of them.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Balance earnings against expenditures; also study where tactics, moves should be altered, stepped up or slowed down. A day for thoughtful appraisal.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Don't change plans or methods without first consulting all concerned. Study where changes ARE needed, and to what degree. Press for efficiency.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Don't abandon a project just because someone else may not be enthusiastic about it, but listen to their ideas anyway. There COULD be some angles you have overlooked.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23) — Dealings with others may have their ups and downs: YOU remain serene and tolerant. Where things seem to be in a slump, use your imagination to inject new vigor.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Curb a tendency to be overly critical. Don't look for flaws in every matter that comes up. Emphasize your tolerance and steadiness.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Familiar matters favored rather than new enterprises. You may encounter tense feelings in some areas. Keep your balance and look at the bright side of things.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Put inferences, conceded facts and other material together and scrutinize well; then you will be surer when you make decisions and move ahead.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — This will be a day calling for good judgment. Do not let unexpected situations ruffle you and do not let yourself be pushed into erroneous paths by the prodding of others.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect, a magnetic personality, great versatility and a brilliant sense of humor. You are objective in your thinking; would make an excellent lawyer, judge or business executive. You love the theater and even though you may not choose the stage as a career, your flair for the dramatic will express itself in any field you choose. Especially in writing or as a composer of music will this gift shine out. Traits to curb: impulsiveness, overaggressiveness. Birthdate of: Robert Southy, English poet; George Hamilton, film star.

Contract Bridge

It sometimes pays to worry

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ J 10 5

The bidding:
South 1♣ West 2♣ North 2♠ East 3♣

Opening lead — king of clubs.

To be a good declarer you have to be a worrier. Consider this deal where South, an ebullient soul, went down in a contract he should have made.

West led the K-A of clubs. South ruffed the ace and played the king of spades at trick three. East ducked and also followed low when South played a low trump to the ten.

Declarer was now in a helpless position. He had to go down whatever he did next. East had the A-7 of trumps left, dummy the singleton jack, and South had the Q-9 of trumps.

Declarer could not afford to play another trump, because East would take the ace and run him out of trumps by returning a club, so he started to run his diamonds. East ruffed the third round with the seven, cashed the ace of trumps, and West later scored a heart trick to put the contract down one.

Had South been a worrier, he would have made four spades. He would have allowed for the possibility that the trumps might be divided 4-1, and he would have taken steps to overcome that possibility.

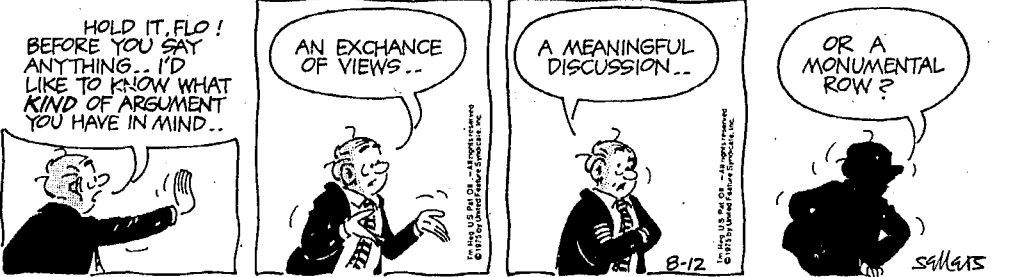

All he had to do was discard a club on the ace of clubs on trick two. The heart could be looked upon as a loser in any event, so permitting West to win two club tricks instead of a club and a heart, in reality amounted to substituting a belated heart loser for an immediate club loser.

West would have found himself stymied at trick three. Whatever he played at this point, South's ultimate losers would consist of merely two clubs and a trump.

It would have paid South good dividends to worry a bit at trick two about the possibility of a 4-1 trump division.

Baseball bats may injure

Dow Jones-Ottaway News
Aluminum baseball and softball bats with rubber grips could lead to serious injuries instead of home runs.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission warns that loose, worn, damaged or deteriorated rubber grips on "hitter's pride" aluminum bats have caused at least two major injuries and one death.

The accidents occurred when the bats became detached from the grips during a swing, were propelled through the air, and hit someone.

Airlite Aluminum Corp., 25 Belgrove Dr., Kearny, N.J. 07032, one of eight grip or bat manufacturers that produces or uses the rubber grips, has volunteered to repair free any "hitter's pride" bat with an airlite handle sent to them by consumers.

Air escorts

Air-travel escorts for children, the elderly, the handicapped, pets, valuables, and even the bodies of deceased persons are provided by a new business called specialized Air Care, Inc. with offices in Seattle, Honolulu, and Portland, Ore.

The company was started by Ted C. Barr, a Lewis and Clark College law student who says he got the idea during a course involving child-custody cases.

He noted that divorced parents separated by long distances had visiting-rights problems because children under age five cannot travel unaccompanied on commercial airlines and youngsters under eight cannot travel alone if an airline trip requires a plan change. The minimum charge is $100 per day plus round-trip airline fare.

Roof leaks

Tomorrow's leaks can be anticipated today through proper maintenance of your roof. In a pamphlet, "Keeping a Roof Over Your Head," the Department of Agriculture offers tips for keeping your roof in shape, suggests repair procedures, and describes the strengths and weaknesses of different roofing materials. Free copies of the four-page folder can be obtained by writing Consumer Information, Dept., 29, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Catalytic controls
Catalytic pollution-control devices on cars driven abroad must be replaced or repaired if the vehicle is brought into the United States after Sept. 27. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency says that the continuous use of leaded gasoline, the only type of fuel available in countries other than the United States, Canada and Mexico, destroys the effectiveness of catalytic controls.

Canning advice

Caution urged in new lid use

UNIVERSITY PARK — Lids called "new concept" lids for canning jars are so new to the marketplace that there has not been enough time for home canners or researchers to evaluate their effectiveness in maintaining proper seals and keeping quality for the expected shelf life of home canned foods.

Louise W. Hamilton, extension foods and nutrition specialist, and Gerald D. Kuhn, extension food technologist, both at The Pennsylvania State University, also point out that lids used for home canning must be proven effective for 100 per cent of home canners using them under varied conditions, with different techniques, and maintaining different standards. Therefore, only time-tested, two-piece metal lids can be recommended at this time.

The new lids take three chief forms. They may look like the traditional two-piece lid with a screw band and flat lid. However, instead of red rubber inside the lid, they will have a plastic substance like teflon as the sealing surface.

Or the lids may be made of plastic rather than metal. New one-piece lids, also with plastic as the sealing surface, are also on the market.

Precautions

If you choose to use "new concept" lids, the extension specialists offer some cautions:

— Buy only a small quantity at first. Keep in mind that the "new concept" lids cost more than the two-piece metal ones.

— Follow the manufacturer's instructions for preparing lids for processing and adjusting screw bands for tightness.

— Regardless of manufacturer's directions, use boiling water bath processing for all acid-type foods and pressure canner processing for all vegetables except tomatoes and pickled beets.

— Counter to recommendations of some new lid manufacturers, do not use "open kettle" canning for any foods except jams and jellies sealed with two-piece metal lids.

— Use hot pack method for both boiling water bath processing or pressure processing foods. Lids are more likely to seal when food is packed hot.

— If you have a choice, use recommended two-piece metal lids for foods you pressure process — meats, vegetables (other than tomatoes). Substitute "new concept" lids for acid-type foods such as fruits, tomatoes, pickled beets and pickles.

— If buying new units — jars, lids and rings — it is recommended you buy those containing the manufacturer's name on both jars and lids. The new lids often have no manufacturer's name on them, making complaints or complaints to the company difficult.

— Test the small quantity of "new concept" lids as soon as possible and evaluate the seals after allowing the jars to cool for 24 hours by making sure lids have a concave configuration. Lids that appear "puffy", spring back, or click when pressed down have not sealed.

In addition, the Extension specialists suggest getting the most for your money and time with the canning jar lids you do have in several ways:

— If possible, freeze rather than can foods.

— Use quart jars instead of pints.

— Be selective in choosing foods to can.

— Delay canning late crops such as apples, carrots, root crops and pears — if you have access to cold storage, in hopes that supply of lids will catch up with demand later.

— Investigate the possibilities of drying foods. But keep in mind that dehydration requires sun and dry weather, or in the absence of these essentials, more costly energy-consuming appliances.

Family should select pharmacist with care

NEW YORK — The pharmacist is an increasingly important member of the team of specialists that helps assure the continued good health of you and your family.

Knowing what to expect from your pharmacist and how to work with him and your doctor to make certain you receive the best medicines at the best value is of utmost importance, according to the National Association of Chain Drug Stores (NACDS).

Pharmacy has advanced a long way in recent years as new drugs constantly appear on the market. The growing complexity of the pharmacist's role can be seen in the fact that roughly half of the 200 most frequently prescribed drug products today were not even available 10 years ago.

Today's pharmacist not only fills his main responsibility of accurately dispensing medicines prescribed by your doctor, he is increasingly called upon to advise doctors on medication, says Robert J. Bolger, president of NACDS.

Most important is to select a pharmacist in whom you and your family can have the same kind of confidence as you have in your doctor.

Questions you might ask yourself include:

Is the pharmacist accessible to answer your questions about medication prescribed by your doctor? Is the pharmacy itself neat and clean? Is the pharmacist professional in manner, friendly and well groomed? Is he willing to consult with your doctor if you have any questions about a prescribed medicine? Is he willing to quote you the price of a medication before he fills the prescription?

A favorable response to these questions would go a long way toward building confidence in a pharmacist.

The term "grass fed beef" is commonly used to describe meat from cattle that have been fed only on range or pasture and have received a "limited" amount of grain before being marketed. "Grass fed beef" is not an official government designation. These animals include steers and heifers that have not gone through feed lots and cows and bulls culled from the nation's breeding herds.

Younger "grass fed" animals are marketed at 12 to 15 months of age and weigh 600 to 800 pounds. These animals usually qualify for the U.S. Department of Agriculture GOOD grade. Heavier animals — between 800 and 1,000 pounds — are marketed at 15 to 25 months of age and normally grade USDA GOOD or STANDARD.

Cows and bulls usually are six to seven years old when marketed. Beef from these animals is used in processed meats such as hamburger or sausage products.

Some grass fed beef is sold in supermarkets in the Southeast, South Central and West Coast states. Grass fed beef may be advertised and sold by store brands or by USDA grade. Usually this meat costs less per pound than grain fed beef. Some stores have offered certain cuts of grass fed beef at 50 cents per pound less than CHOICE grade beef.

Because "grass fed" beef has less fat covering and marbling than grain fed beef, it may be slightly less flavorful and juicy. The fat may be cream or light yellow in color because of substances in the grass the animal was fed. Fat color has no effect on the flavor or eating qualities of the meat.

The most tender cuts from the loin and rib of "grass fed" beef may contain as much marbling — fat with the lean — as grain fed beef and can be broiled. Cuts with slightly less marbling should be cooked to medium doneness for maximum flavor and juiciness. Cuts from the chuck and round should not be broiled. Instead, brown, season and cook them in liquid at 300 to 325 degree F for several hours, depending on size.

There is no indication that the trend is toward all "grass fed" beef. The marketplace will determine how much grain actually is fed to cattle. Cattlemen have changed feeding practices because of high feed costs.

Last round for input in E-burg

EAST STROUDSBURG — The final public hearing on the Crystal Street urban renewal project in East Stroudsburg will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the municipal building on Analomink Street.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive comment on the project, according to Borough Manager Donald Gage.

The hearing is being held in compliance with state law and is called by the East Stroudsburg Borough Council and the Monroe County Board of Commissioners.

After the hearing, council will decide whether or not to adopt a resolution naming the Crystal Street area an official renewal area and to ask the county commissioners to concur in the designation.

The proposed program has been available for inspection at the municipal building and at the offices of the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County since July 22.

The first year program is being funded through a $497,000 Community Development Act grant granted by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The borough will be eligible for two more grants of the same size and two smaller grants for a total of $2.3 million.

Most of the first year's entitlement will go towards renovating the central business district of the borough between Crystal Street and North Courtland Street.

The area is a section formerly included in the Courtland Plaza redevelopment plans rejected by the federal government when business area redevelopment was halted several years ago.

The borough plans to acquire seven substandard buildings and the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad Station. All but the station are to be demolished. Street improvements, such as curbing and sidewalks are also included in the first year plans.

PMVB to expand offices

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau has been granted a certificate of non-conformance by the Stroudsburg Zoning Hearing Board in order for it to add space to an office building at 1004 Main St., Stroudsburg.

The certificate was issued Monday night at a special meeting of the zoning board. Board chairman Clement B. Price said that a special meeting was held out of courtesy for the contractor and the bureau.

"Because the bureau didn't know that special permission was needed we felt that a meeting was necessary," Price said. "They would have had to wait until our next meeting (Sept. 8) before it would have been brought up for consideration."

The bureau was granted permission to enlarge their office space by 40 per cent because of their non-conformance status.

tech program scheduled to begin in September 1976.

NCACC directors made their recommendations after rejecting seven applicants for the director's position last month.

According to Woodbury, an interviewing panel comprised of himself, two NCACC deans, and Ensminger felt the "applicants could not handle the type of operation at Delaware Valley."

"They (the applicants) might have been able to handle the traditional vo-tech school, but we were looking for people with innovations and different approaches to construction of a post-secondary and secondary vo-tech program," he said.

Woodbury, who is currently the interim director of the community college, was involved in preliminary planning of a community college service center for the school district.

The operating board will consider NCACC recommendations at its next public meeting Tuesday, Aug. 19.

If approval is granted, Woodbury will direct the community college program and Ensminger will plan secondary vo-tech education, which Woodbury can not do under state regulations.

"They're really getting two people for the price of one," Woodbury said, noting that Ensminger, an employee of NCACC, will be made available to the district under a purchase of services agreement. As director, Woodbury will be paid an annual salary of $20,160 plus fringe benefits.

Woodbury, who helped negotiate the contract between NCACC and Delaware Valley and later arranged state approval and financial aid for the experimental program, has been employed at NCACC for four years and is currently dean of Resource Development.

Woodbury, 33, has a bachelor of arts degree from Bates College, a certificate in European Studies from the University of Aix-Marseilles and a master's degree from the University of Maine.

He is married with two children and resides at Holiday Lake, Montague, N.J. Woodbury said he hopes to lease a home in the Delaware Valley School District for this year.

Maximum term imposed for Eastburg baby killing

STROUDSBURG — Labeling the killing of a two-month-old infant as "brutal," a Monroe County Court judge Monday imposed the maximum sentence allowed by law against Mrs. Carol Adams, 23, of 114 King St., East Stroudsburg who was convicted of involuntary manslaughter in the death of her daughter.

President Judge Arlington W. Williams imposed the maximum two-and-a-half to five-year prison sentence and said, "In a situation marked with such cruelty, such violence, the only reasonably fair sentence the court could impose is the maximum permitted by law."

Mrs. Adams, who wore a light green dress, stood quietly while the judge imposed the sentence. She was given 30 days in which to appeal and was ordered to pay the cost of prosecution.

The judge gave Mrs. Adams credit for time she has served in jail since April 15, 1974 when she was arrested.

Mrs. Adams was convicted of involuntary manslaughter by a jury in October 1974.

The infant, Jeanine Adams, died at 2 a.m. March 23, 1974 in the General Hospital of Monroe County from a massive skull fracture.

In a statement prior to the sentencing, Walter Olenick, defense attorney, told the court the finding of the jury was the least serious offense she could have been convicted.

The jury had options of returning a guilty verdict on third degree murder, voluntary manslaughter, involuntary manslaughter, or not guilty.

"Carol Adams has steadfastly maintained her innocence. She maintains to this day she had nothing to do with this act," Olenick stated. "The verdict was based on circumstantial evidence."

Asst. Dist. Atty. C. Daniel Higgins said the jury returned the verdict of involuntary manslaughter and moved for imposition of sentence.

Judge Williams said the jury found Mrs. Adams guilty on the evidence and that the court substantiates the verdict.

Robbers sentenced
In other court matters, two Hazleton men were sentenced to two-and-a-half to five-years in prison for robbing The Hearth tavern in Bartonsville of $800.

Creel's attorney, John Lawler, told the court it was Creel's first offense and that he is involved in a successful rehabilitation program at Northampton County Prison.

Choice's attorney, Thomas F. Dirvonas, said his client drove the getaway car and never took any money or put anyone in fear of bodily harm.

Both men were also ordered to pay the cost of prosecution.

Monroe chief clerk resigns

STROUDSBURG — Miss Carol A. Dorshimer, chief clerk of Monroe County, Monday submitted a letter of resignation from that post effective Aug. 25.

The county commissioners accepted her resignation with regret and commended her for her past work.

Miss Dorshimer was appointed a chief clerk in January 1972. She said she was resigning for "personal reasons" from the $10,500-a-year job.

As chief clerk, her duties included keeping files and records of the county commissioners and attesting to vouchers approved by the commissioners.

Commissioner William Quinn said Mrs. Janet Weidensaul, assistant chief clerk, will become acting chief clerk.

Forgery charges

STROUDSBURG — A Waterford man will be charged today with attempting to cash a stolen check and possession of stolen credit cards. He was apprehended while allegedly trying to cash one of the checks in the Seventh Street branch of Monroe Security Bank.

Borough police said a bank teller called them about 4:20 and reported a man was trying to cash checks the teller said were stolen.

Police went to the bank and found the man, 20 year-old Donald Lee Gaber, inside. He was apprehended and police found checks and the stolen credit cards on him.

After checking his identification, police discovered Gaber was wanted for deserting by the U.S. Army.

Great sog created by rain

By STEVE DRACHLER
Pocono Record Reporter
STROUDSBURG — Every-time it rains, Mrs. Dorothy DeHaven of 520 Avenue F, Stroud Township, hopes it doesn't pour.

If it does, she said her lawn turns into a pond and her cellar damp and soggy.

Monday it rained. Hard. And for more than Mrs. DeHaven's half-hour limit.

"If it rains for more than a half-hour we have problems," Mrs. DeHaven said, pointing to a pond she said is normally her family's back yard.

She and her neighbors are mad. They said they are tired of their lawns turning into their lakes and garages into islands everytime it rains hard.

"There is not enough storm drainage in this area," said Mrs. Grace Meyer of 528 Avenue F, Mrs. DeHaven's neighbor.

Mrs. Meyer said every spring the neighborhood has water problems when the snow melts and spring rains saturate the ground.

Mrs. DeHaven said she has tried to get township supervisors to remedy the problem (the water comes from North Fifth Street down Avenue F) with no results.

Supervisor Anthony Mangan said he did not know what the township could do to alleviate the problem and added he would look into the situation and get in contact with Mrs. DeHaven.

Energy parks no certainty, yet

STROUDSBURG — It will be 1977 before area power companies determine if energy parks like the one proposed for Tobyhanna are feasible.

John H. Saeger, manager for energy park development and transmission engineering for Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. (PP&L) said the energy park concept "has potential merit and we think it deserves further study. It will be at least one-and-a-half years before we are ready to make a decision."

Energy parks are a concentration of power plants in one area. The park near Tobyhanna is one of 10 being considered throughout Pennsylvania.

Saeger said there are "a number of problems with the development of the Tobyhanna site." The main problem is unavailability of water for cooling the generating plant.

Saeger told the Monroe County Commissioners, planning commission representatives and general authority of officials that one energy park would cost $10-$15 billion to build.

He said the first one would not be in operation for at least 12 years if the program is found to be feasible.

Saeger admitted an energy park could have some influence on the weather in the area, causing more cloudiness and about one inch more of rain a year.

C. Marshall Reese, chairman of the planning commission, pointed out that the Pocono region is a resort area and relies on good weather. Saeger said there would not be a significant effect and that cloudy days would only increase by two or three a year.

Saeger said where 20 or 30 separate power plants would be needed over the next 20 years, only three to five energy parks would be necessary.

"As the next step in the study, one site will be selected for more detailed examination on the basis of soil conditions, water supply and environmental and community effects."

each to 1.8 cents each.

The resignation of Miss Helen Brown from the county, Recreation and Park Commission was accepted and the commissioners agreed to keep her on as a non-salaried advisor.

The commissioners reappointed two members of the county General Authority to five-year terms. Those reappointed were Joseph Palchak and Charles Poallilo.

The commissioners also approved payment of $1,728 to the Sheridan Printing Co. of New Jersey for 550 copies of The Minisink, a history of the Minisink valley.

Best shots capture wildlife

STROUDSBURG — A wildlife photography exhibit will be on display this week at the Pocono Wild Animal Farm, Stroudsburg.

In a photography contest held Monday at the Wild Animal Farm the following photographers won prizes: Peggy Williams, Stroudsburg, first prize; Robert Robey, Cresco, second prize and Joan Smith, Stroudsburg, third prize. Honorable mentions were given to S. Garvey, East Stroudsburg; Mark Brink, Delaware Water Gap and Peggy Williams.

Judges for the contest were Sterling Straussner, a painter in East Stroudsburg and Lawrence Levy and Lilo Hess, both photographers in Stroudsburg.

There were 26 entries in the photography contest and $50 was awarded to first place, $30 to second and $20 to third.

Special job-training funds attract Monroe applicants

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners Monday were offered help in spending nearly $200,000 in federal government money as five more requests for workers under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) were received.

The latest requests brings to 13 the application received since Thursday.

Coolbaugh Township said it could use a clerk-typist, a maintenance man and a policeman. Tobyhanna Township said it had openings for a stenographer and a maintenance man.

Last week the commissioners received eight requests for workers from the Soil and Water Conservation District and the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

The county is to receive separate grants of $147,605 and about $50,000 to give employment to the unemployed and to train them in a skill.

Any money the county does not use will be returned to the state for distribution to other counties.

In other matters, the county agreed to purchase three air conditioners from M.F. Weiss Inc. of Brodheadsville for $711. The units are to be used in the register and recorder's office, the bicentennial office and the park commission office. Weiss was the lowest of three bids received.

The commissioners agreed to make application to the post office for a special bulk rate for third class mail to be used in mailing out 200 monthly bicentennial newsletters.

The commissioners said the special rate, if approved by postal authorities, would reduce the cost from 10 cents

School addition hearing fizzles

BRODHEADSVILLE — Increased enrollments and cramped quarters were the reasons given by administrators, architects and financiers of the Pleasant Valley School District for an over half million dollar addition to the Eldred Elementary School.

But there was plenty of space in the high school cafeteria Monday for only seven residents who attended a public hearing to question the proposed project.

A public hearing was required by state law because bids for the project exceeded original cost estimates by eight per cent or more.

According to Lester Stein, architect for the project, construction costs for the Eldred addition, which will include six classrooms, a kitchen and cafeteria, will total $688,748.

Architect's fees, legal fees, equipment, bond discount, and printing and rating of the bond issue will boost the total cost of the project about $805,000. A 20-year bond issue will be made to cover the cost of the project.

Superintendent John Nye justified the expansion, noting that enrollment in the district has increased by "a couple 100 students each year."

"Even in a time when the economy is not so good, we are ranked by the state department of education as the second fastest growing district in the state," he said.

Charles Chaffee, an education consultant for the district, testified there were increased housing projects in the district over the past several years that will continue to increase school enrollments.

Nellie Kostenbader, a Ross Township resident, asked board members if the building expansion project would increase taxes next year.

"If taxes keep going up, I think some of the programs will have to be cut out. The earning power in Monroe County is not very good — we just can't accept anymore tax increases," Mrs. Kostenbader said.

Nye said the district would try to hold down real estate taxes, but noted the state legislature must change the law and institute a more equitable income tax.

"We are hoping the legislature will enact a wage tax so those persons who earn the most money will pay the most tax," he said.

without cheap answers like 'God wants you to die' or 'It's okay.' Well, it's not okay. Oftentimes death is nonsense. It's not too easy to make sense out of nonsense," he continued.

Fr. Fantaskey said death is much more difficult to understand if the patient is young.

"It's hard to get the family to accept if the person is young. I'd tell them he's lived his life on earth and has reached the point in his life when God calls him to himself in eternal life," he explained.

The Rev. Samuel Huffard, of East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church, said it is important for the patient to "work through" his feelings.

"My first response would

Religious leaders help people avoid spiritual death

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two articles on death and how medical professionals and clergymen help people cope with dying.)

By DEBORAH ENYEART
Pocono Record Reporter
EAST STROUDSBURG — People can die twice.

Doctors and nurses can help a patient through the inevitable physical death, while religious leaders can help people avoid a spiritual death.

Area religious leaders agree that faith can be a comfort to terminally ill patients and their families.

Generally they try to comfort the patient and his family by discussing their faith and by just being there as much as possible to listen.

Msgr. Thomas Cawley, of St. Matthew and St. John's Roman Catholic Churches, said accepting death is much easier for people with faith.

"People will face death realistically if they faced life realistically. Once we're born, we know we're going to die. If people are in the habit of running away, they're much harder to reach," he said.

Catholics believe death is not an end to life but a transition to a new, eternal life, explained Father Chuck Fantaskey.

"We can only comfort by understanding, not by pushing death away," he said.

Msgr. Cawley said no one can provide a reason for death but the family should be grateful for the love they shared with the person while he lived.

"People blame God for the bad things that happen and take credit for the good. The moment there's a serious problem, they ask 'Why is God doing this to me?'" he said.

"We don't understand. But if we understood God, He wouldn't be much of a God," he continued.

The Rev. David Ritterpusch, of Christ Hamilton United Lutheran Church, says he doesn't provide quick answers.

"I don't believe God goes around killing people. He's a God of life, not death," he said.

"I'm ready to stay and listen probably be 'Oh, no, that's terrible.' I'd probably be as upset as you are. My concern would be to let you know how deeply I felt," he said.

"It would take time on my part, a matter of being there and being sensitive when we can deal with it," Rev. Huffard said.

Rabbi Steven Westman, of Temple Israel, said people can't really accept death.

"The words don't come easily. I'd do little talking and let the person talk. It would be presumptuous for me to preach or sermonize," he said.

Rev. Ritterpusch said it's good for people to let their emotions show.

"It's okay to cry. We do a disservice by not allowing emotions to come out. Those big sobs and big screams have to come out one way or another," he said.

All of these men agreed it is very important to prevent the patient from being alone.

"The biggest thing is not to shy away and isolate the person who's dying," Rev. Ritterpusch said.

"You listen and you try to be patient. You spend time to develop a relationship so he can feel comfortable asking questions. Eventually reality will hit," Fr. Fantaskey said.

"You don't make it artificial. If they have trouble sleeping, I'd give them a call at night to let them know I really want to help them and be there," he continued.

Rev. Huffard said patients can still be lonely despite visitors.

"A lot of patients say it's a very lonely thing even with their family, nurses and minister if they want to talk about the thing they've got and no one wants to listen."

The closeness of the Jewish family and community comforts the dying patient, Rabbi Westman said.

"We close ranks and go out and support the person. The family emotionally supports the patient and the community supports the family with warmth and love," he said.

The Jewish faith differs from the Christian faith in its view of what happens after death.

The Jewish faith professes a vague belief in an afterlife, teaching a person's spirit lives on in others.

"The afterlife is not central. It's a life-stressing religion," explained Rabbi Westman.

He said Jewish families are comforted by the religion's rituals for death.

"The person is at rest and the family can begin to remember the person the way he lived. They can reconstruct memories of the living person, and that's a comforting thought," he said.

"The person lives on in the memory of what he or she did," the rabbi explained.

Discharge discussed in private

EAST STROUDSBURG — Despite lengthy discussions Monday, no apparent headway was made in resolving the contested discharge of Mrs. Jeanette Saurina from the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County.

No date was set for a hearing requested by the former relocation director for the authority, who was dismissed without explanation July 24 from a $10,000 a year job.

Mrs. Saurina decided to contest the discharge and Friday requested a hearing.

She and her attorney, George Royle, met with the Redevelopment Authority's executive director and solicitor Monday for three and a half hours.

"It's in the hands of the attorneys," said William Blackburn, the executive director. "There is nothing to say."

Messersmith pushes Phillies back a step

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Andy Messersmith drove in a pair of runs and hurled a four-hitter Monday night in leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 7-1 victory over Philadelphia that dropped the Phillies three games back in the National League East pennant chase.

Messersmith snapped a personal three-game losing streak to pick up his 14th victory of the season against 11 losses. Larry Christenson (6-4) took the loss.

The Dodgers took a 3-0 lead in the second with Messersmith's bases-loaded walk bringing in the first run and Dave Lopes' doubling for two more.

Ron Cey and Willie Crawford singled to open the inning and after Steve Yeager's sacrifice, Bill Russell was intentionally walked to set up Messersmith's RBI.

Los Angeles knocked out Christenson with four runs in the sixth. Cey doubled and scored on Willie Crawford's seventh homer of the season. After singles by Yeager and Russell, Ron Schueler replaced Christenson. Schueler threw wild trying to pick off Yeager and Messersmith brought in the sixth run with a sacrifice fly. Bill Buckner's double then scored Russell for the final Dodger run.

Mets, 8-4

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets, led by Ed Kranepool's three-run homer and a pair of doubles by Joe Torre, clubbed the San Diego Padres 8-4 Monday night.

Kranepool's homer, his third, came in the sixth inning off starter and loser Randy Jones, 15-7. The homer, which followed a walk to Rusty Staub and a

Pirates, 8-1

ATLANTA (UPI) — Daring base running by Rennie Stennett in the early innings and a six-run rally in the top of the ninth Monday night sparked Pittsburgh to an 8-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves, snapping the Pirates' five-game losing streak.

Stennett scored the Pirates' first two runs, the first in the first inning when he walked, stole second and scored on a wild pitch by losing pitcher Jamie Easterly. Stennett scored the second run in the third when he got on a fielder's choice and, after racing all the way to third on a single by Manny Sanguillen, kept on going home with an unearned run when Braves' second baseman Larvell Blanks failed to hang on to the relay.

The Pirates, battling to stay ahead of Philadelphia in the National League East, padded their margin in the ninth when Dave Parker doubled home pinch-runner Willie Randolph, Ed Kirkpatrick and Stennett followed with singles, Sanguil-len hit a two-run double and Al Oliver also singled.

the the San Francisco Giants to a 9-2 victory over the Montreal Expos.

The Giants took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on Speier's bases-loaded double.

Larry Parrish singled home a run for the Expos in the first inning off winning pitcher Ed Halicki, narrowing the score to 2-1. Halicki went seven innings, improving his record to 6-9. He struck out 12.

The Giants jumped on loser Steve Rogers for three runs in the third inning. Dave Rader singled home a run and Halicki helped his own cause with another single which drove in two runs.

Reds, 9-3

CINCINNATI (UPI) — George Foster drove in a pair of runs with a perfect 5-for-5 night at the plate and Ken Griffey added four hits Monday, igniting the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs behind the route-going pitching of Jack Billingham.

Billingham (13-5), in hurling the first complete game for the Reds since July 30, gave the NL West leaders only their 20th route-going outing of the year. He gave up eight hits.

$4.5 million deal running to sell Foolish Pleasure

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) — Foolish Pleasure, the Kentucky Derby winner and currently the top-ranking 3-year-old colt in the country, is in the process of being syndicated for $4.5 million, but the deal won't be completed before Saturday.

"Send me the money and then I'll believe it, otherwise it's kind of premature," LeRoy Jolley, Foolish Pleasure's trainer, said Monday at Saratoga. Jolley is also managing the arrangements for the syndication.

The What A Pleasure-Fool Me Not, by Tom Fool colt has won 12 of 15 lifetime starts. He was unbeaten as the 2-year-old Horse of the Year in seven starts and this year his only losses were second place finishes in the Preakness and Belmont Stakes and a third place in the Florida Derby.

In his last start, he was matched in a $350,000 race against tragedy-stricken Ruffian, winning uncontested when the previously undefeated filly broke her right foreleg and had to be destroyed.

Perhaps thinking back to that last race, potential investors are waiting until this Saturday's 1-1/4 mile, $100,000 added Travers Stakes, the oldest 3-year-old stakes race in North America, is completed before making a final decision.

Foolish Pleasure will be entered against a top field of 3-year-olds, which probably will include Wajima, the $600,000 yearling; Canadian champion L'Enjoleur; Western star Foretem winner of the Jim Dandy Stakes here; Prince Thou Art, who beat him in the Florida

Derby; Dwyer Stakes-winning Valid Appeal; Media and Intrepid Hero.

The outcome of the race is likely to figure in the success of the syndication. A win might possibly hike the purchase price; an adverse showing could also affect the transaction.

If the deal goes through, it would be the sixth highest amount ever paid for a syndication. Secretariat tops all figures, $6,080,000 for 37 shares, in 1973. Nijinsky 2d was next at $5,440,000 in 1970, followed by Secretariat's stablemate Riva Ridge in 1973 at $5,120,000.

Vaguely Noble, in 1968, and Mill Wreath, in 1973, went for $5 million; Key to the Mint (1973) and Buckpasser (1967) were syndicated for $4.8 million.

Namath will start against Cardinals

HEMSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — Quarterback Joe Namath probably will get his first starting assignment of the year Saturday night when the New York Jets take on the Cardinals in St. Louis.

Coach Charley Winner said Monday that Namath is scheduled to play the first half of the game. The Jets' veteran quarterback did not start against the Minnesota Vikings in last Saturday's preseason game at Phoenix.

Winner also said that running back Emerson Boozer, suffering from a groin pull, would start if available. He would team with John Riggins for the fat share of the ball carrying.

Cowboys

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys, moving toward the mandatory 60-player limit, Monday released eight players, including four draft choices and a veteran quarterback.

P.V. hires Litz

BRODHEADSVILLE — George Litz, former head basketball coach at Pocono Central Catholic High School, was hired by Pleasant Valley High School Monday night as the Bears' new head cage coach.

Litz was hired by the board as a health and physical education teacher at a salary of $12,000 a year. He will receive $1,200 annually as head basketball coach.

Litz served as head basketball coach and athletic director at PCC for ten years before resigning at the end of the 1974-75 school year.

Ed Gayeski of Wilkes-Barre was also in the running for the position, but withdrew his application for the job Monday morning.

In another athletic appointment, the board appointed Gary Bruch as freshman football coach. Bruch, who was hired as an elementary teacher in June, will receive an annual salary of $475 as an assistant coach.

Redskins

CARLISLE, Pa. (UPI) — The Washington Redskins have cut 11 more players from the roster, including nine-year running back Doug Cunningham, three other NFL veterans and three draft picks.

The NFL players were guard Carl Johnson, formerly of the New Orleans Saints, tackle Craig Robinson who had been with the Houston Oilers, and defensive end Allen Aldridge, who had played with the Oilers and the Cleveland Browns.

Saints

THIBODAUX, La. (UPI) — The New Orleans Saints have placed veteran wide receiver Bob Newland on a special injury list and cut seven rookies from the roster.

Coach John North planned two more cuts today to reach the league roster limit of 60 players.

Pocono women's softball

EAST STROUDSBURG — Donna Emery slammed a home run which helped B.J.'s nip Slou's Mower, 5-4 Monday in a Pocono Women's Softball League game.

Barb Eilber gained credit for the victory, while Kathy Millward took the loss.

Athletic plaques

SWIFTWATER — 1975 Pocono Mountain High School graduates who received athletic plaques at the all sports banquet should take their awards to Pocono Sports Shop to have their name plaques engraved.

ORANTES SMASHES ASHE — Manuel Orantes of Spain gets in position for a return against Arthur Ashe in the finals of the U.S. Clay Court championships. Orantes easily disposed of Ashe, 6-2, 6-2 to win the $16,000 first place prize. (UPI)

Tigers' tailspin reaches 16 games

DETROIT (UPI) — Gaylord Perry pitched a five-hitter that was Detroit's third consecutive shutout loss in a 16 game losing streak and extended the Tigers number of scoreless innings to 29 in a 7-0 triumph Monday night by the Texas Rangers.

Detroit only has one run to show for its last 37 innings of play in its club record losing streak. The three consecutive shutouts are believed to be a record but team statistics are not clear on that point.

Perry raised his record to 12-15 by striking out seven and giving up four singles and a double. He has only allowed two earned runs in his last 58 innings of pitching. The double by Aurelio Rodriguez leading off the eighth was Detroit's

Local pro to play Canadian golfers

By JOE MIEGOC
Record Sports Editor

MOUNTAINHOME — Mo-Nom-O-Nock golf professional Vinnie Ciarlone will compete in the sixth annual pro-amateur International Invitational Golf Tournament pitting American pros and amateurs against Canadian pros and amateurs Wednesday, Aug. 20, at Hawthorn Golf and Country Club, Hawthorn, N.J.

A total of $5,000 in money and prizes is available in the tournament, which has been won in the past by four players: Tom Ulozas and Billy Ziobro. Included in the tournament are professionals from New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and South America, in addition to Canadian pros from the Montreal and Toronto areas.

Ciarlone explained that he got the chance to play in the tourney at his winter spot of employment last winter, Harter Hall, in Sebring, Fla. "This past winter I worked at Harter Hall, the site of the 1975 Florida winter tournament," he said, "which brings a lot of Canadian and American club pros down. I was asked to play then and now I have my invitation."

Ciarlone is taking Kenny Watson with him as the amateur guest he's allowed to enter as a playing partner. Watson plays out of Buck Hill and the Country Club of Scranton, among other courses.

This is the first time in such a tournament for Ciarlone, who came over from Buck Hill to become Mo-Nom-O-Nock's first pro in May.

"This is the first time I've been asked to play in what I would think is a big tournament to these people," he explained. "A lot of name players from the Canadian PGA are playing."

"It's an honor for me to play in something of this nature."

The tournament will be conducted both on individual and team scores, with prize money that could total near $1,000 for a pro if he wins the individual and team titles. Amateurs are playing for more than $1,600 in gifts.

This is the sixth year the Canadian pros have come to Hawthorn to compete against American club pros and there is talk of continuing the series with a return match in Canada, a format typical of the Ryder Cup home-and-home series, but not on as large a scale.

"I think they did it last year," Ciarlone said. "I think they are in the process of getting a date to play another match in Canada."

"They haven't said anything to me about going to it, but I imagine they would have a return match in Canada."

Golfers scramble at Mt. Manor

MARSHALLS CREEK — Jim Kroclic, Marge Grimm, Lillian Johnson, and Albert Ryker combined to win the nine-hole mixed scramble tournament at Mountain Manor with a score of 33.

Kroclic, a Stroudsburg resident, gave his team a big boost on the eighth hole of the blue course. Kroclic selected a two iron for his second shot on the par five hole and put it in the cup for a double eagle.

Second place finishers with a score of 34 were Don Plus of East Stroudsburg, Bob Hanlon of Marshalls Creek, Millie McGirr of Marshalls Creek, and Millie Mohrmann of Marshalls Creek.

Five teams tied for third place with an even par score of 36. The five third place four-somes were Paul Long, Mike Stofega, Irene Werkheiser, and Evelyn Garbaccio; Harry Thomas, Mac Below, Jeanne Lupin, and Tillie Eienkel; Bob Theissinger, George Eienkel, Marge Taylor, and Wynne Below; Jim Farry, Jim Fredericks, Marilyn Theissinger, and Terry Kroclic; and Tom Monahan, Gus Rossi, Nellie Long, and Alice Hahn.

The club's next tournament will be the President's Cup on Sunday, August 24. Men will tee off at 11 a.m. with women golfers teeing off immediately after the men.

Bowling meeting

STROUDSBURG — The Twin Boro Mens Bowling League will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at Colonial Lanes in Stroudsburg.

Rain halts net play

STROUDSBURG — Early evening thundershowers halted semifinals doubles play Monday in the Stroudsburg Women's Open Tennis Tournament.

Kay Collins-Jean Clark and Janet Cassebaum-Barbara Wilke were tied at 3-3 in the first set when the rains came Monday evening.

The match will be continued today at 5:30 p.m. along with the other semifinal doubles match of Jill Rader-Denise Lisicky vs. Judy Rue-MaryAnn Higgins.

Wolf Hollow winners

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Joan Ruvane of Buck Hill and Marie Campbell of Oak Hill Country Club took the top individual honors Monday in the 16th annual Ladies Wolf Hollow Invitational Tournament at Water Gap Country Club.

Ruvane shot a 77 to post the best low gross score in the field, while Campbell fired a 67 to take low net honors.

In team play, the host Water Gap Country Club team took low gross honors with a 343 total. Mary Lou Breslin, Vaughn Hendricks, Diana Valis, and Jean Van Tassel were the members of the winning Water Gap team.

Barbara Feruce, Ruth Galasi, Nancy Waters, and Evelyn Zacarro, representing the Colonial Country Club, shot a 286 total to earn low net team honors.

A total of 118 golfers competed in the tournament.

29 Pocono personalities will face softball's king

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountain Jaycees have rounded up 29 men willing to pit their softball talents against The King and His Court.

The Pocono All Stars will get a chance to show what they can do against the pitching of "King" Eddie Feigner at 6:15 p.m. August 26 at the East Stroudsburg High School football stadium.

The Jaycees, who are sponsoring the show, have earmarked their share of the gate receipts to aid Camp Moll for retarded children and the Jaycees' senior citizens programs.

The Pocono All Star roster will include Kim Williams, Paul Lim, George Metropolis, Harry Mullins, Jerry Cheslock, Dr. Francis Lovechio, Bob Wert, Paul Flores, Hank Harris, Wilmont Smith, Dick Merring, Joe Small, John Viechnicki, Dr. Frank Dracos, Garry McFarland, and Fritz Seamen.

Other area personalities who have signed up to play for the All Stars include Harry Powlus, George Kazakos, Dan Higgins, Dr. Vincent DeFranco, Dr. Joel Samuelson, Joe Miegoc, Denny Hollinger, Hil-debrant Nootigedangt, Jim Reynolds, Bob Uguccione, Bob Ace, Bruce Frassinelli, and Lumpy Brannum, better known to children as Mr. Green Jeans on the Captain Kangaroo television show.

Needless to say, Feigner is the headline performer on the four-man King and His Court squad. He possesses at least 16 different deliveries and dozens of different pitches.

The only three other players who back up Feigner are 17-year veteran first baseman Al Jackson, Les Barber behind the plate, and Gary West at shortstop. West is occasionally spelled by Eddie Feigner Jr.

Stan Lee, Harry Miller, and Dick Schmidt will umpire the seven-inning contest.

The show will consist of a pre-game and post-game dialogue by Feigner and a regulation seven-inning game.

Feigner will demonstrate various pitches and deliveries and then proceed to show the Pocono All Stars' crew what he meant by the demonstration.

As usual, Feigner will pitch the fifth inning while blindfolded with first baseman Jackson along side him, both to protect an "accidentally" hit ball and to describe the hitter's size, stance, and distance from the plate.

Tickets are available from any member of the Jaycees and at Lims Sports Shop, Stroudsburg Sport Shop, Mainline Music, Counterman's Drug Store, and East Stroudsburg Beverage.

THE KING AT WORK — Eddie Feigner demonstrates the form which has made him a living legend among softball pitchers. Feigner will bring his traveling softball team to East Stroudsburg on August 26 for a game against the Pocono All Stars.

Forbes won't face an assault re-trial

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Hennepin County Attorney Gary Flakne Monday announced he will not seek to put Boston Bruins' forward Dave Forbes on trial a second time and will ask District Court Judge Rolf Fosseen today to dismiss an aggravated assault charge.

A mistrial was declared July 18 in Forbes' initial trial when a jury failed to reach a decision after 18 hours' deliberation. He was the first hockey player to stand trial for conduct during a game.

Forbes was charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon—his hockey stick—in connection with a fight with the Minnesota North Stars' Henry Boucha during a hockey game last January.

"There is no reasonable basis to believe a second trial would result in conviction," Flakne said at a news conference. "I am convinced that no matter how carefully selected the next jurors might be, they could not reach unanimity if the case were retried."

"It would only serve to harass and make an example of Mr. Forbes. This would be wrong."

Both players had served time in the penalty box for an earlier fight and they clashed again when they returned to the ice. Boucha, now with the Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association, received a serious eye injury which has left him with double vision.

Flakne said he believed the jury's 9-3 vote in favor of conviction in the first trial was "a fair and accurate community consensus with regard to game violence in general and the action of Mr. Forbes in particular."

"We have served notice on the National Hockey League and others that extraordinarily violent acts will not be tolerated in this community and that athletes, no matter in what sport they participate, will not be immune from prosecution should they conduct themselves in a manner similar to that of the defendant," he said.

Flakne said he met with NHL President Clarence Campbell in Montreal before making his decision and told him that he "would not hesitate to follow the same course of action" in similar circumstances.

He said Campbell, who had suspended Forbes from 10 games as a result of the attack, remained neutral in the trial issue.

Paterno will have to look for a new group of stars

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Joe Paterno, the master shuffler, has done some nifty card tricks to keep perennial eastern champion Penn State a contender in the face of its toughest schedule in years.

Graduation left holes in the offense, and holes in the defense, but Paterno has mysteriously given up his crying towel.

Gone are All-America defensive tackle Mike Hartenstein, and quarterback Tom Shuman, one of the Nittany Lions top all-time passers and the Most Valuable Player in the 1975 Cotton Bowl and the 1974 Orange Bowl.

Fullback Tom Donchez, last year's top rusher and scorer, is also gone along with tight end Dan Natale, the Lions' No. 3 all time pass receiver, split end Jim Eaise, defensive end Greg Murphy center Jack Bairunos and punter Brian Masella.

The Lions, often criticized for having soft schedules, have some top notch opponents this season—including Ohio State.

Penn State will also face strong Pitt and Maryland teams. And the Lion defense will be challenged by the most outstanding collegiate runners around—Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State, Pitt's Tony Dorsett, Kentucky's Sonny Collins and WVU's Artie Owens, from Stroudsburg, all of whom averaged more than a 100-yards per game rushing last season.

Here are some of the more interesting battles which will be contested when fall practice begins August 18:

SPLIT END — No fewer than four players listed as top candidates: seniors Dick Barvinchak, Binghamton, N.Y.; Mike Sands, Nassau, Bahamas; and Rod Zur, Endicott, N.Y., and junior Bruce Ellis, State College.

QUARTERBACK — Paterno lists two juniors on the first unit of the pre-practice depth chart, even though he recently said there is "not much" chance of alternating signal callers. They are John Andress, 6-2, 206 pounds, of Greensburg, who was Shuman's chief backup last year, and John Carroll, a 6-5½, 205-pounder from Pittsburgh, who made a strong showing at spring practice. Paterno says Andress "had a slight edge because of a little more game experience, but he lost some of it with spring injuries."

RUNNING BACKS — Sophomore Jimmy Cefalo showed exciting potential as a game-breaking wingback last season. He has outstanding range and excellent hands. Larry Suhey, a 5-11½, 214-pound freshman from State College, is on Paterno's first unit on the depth chart, in front of 5-10, 203-pound Duane Taylor, Greensburg, who was the Lions' number two rusher and scorer behind plate.

KICKER — Paterno lists two juniors on the first unit of the pre-practice depth chart, even though he recently said there is "not much" chance of alternating signal callers. They are John Andress, 6-2, 206 pounds, of Greensburg, who was Shuman's chief backup last year, and John Carroll, a 6-5½, 205-pounder from Pittsburgh, who made a strong showing at spring practice. Paterno says Andress "had a slight edge because of a little more game experience, but he lost some of it with spring injuries."

Donchez last year. "It should be a season-long battle between Suhey and Taylor for the fullback job," Paterno says. "They both played well in the spring."

TIGHT END — Junior Dave Stuts, 6-1½, 217 pounds, of Mifflintown, chosen the most improved player at spring practice, and sophomore Mickey Shuler, 6-4, 210 pounds; of Enola, are considered the No. 1 and 2 candidates respectively.

CENTER — Seniors Rich Knechtel, of Penn. Pa., and Rich Cavella, Franklin Square, N. Y., and juniors Ron Argenta, Greensburg, and Dave Shukri, Lindenhurst, N.Y., as possible replacements for Bairunos, but says Knechtel holds a slight edge on the basis of his play last spring.

LINEBACKER — Always the heart of the Lion defense, the linebacking will be led by inside LB Greg Buttle, the leader in tackles, interceptions and fumble recoveries. Under-rated Rich Kriston has experience at the other inside slot. But the top four outside men are gone and defensive halfbacks Jeff Hite and Hostellar will be asked to fill in.

INTERIOR LINE — Ron Coder will move from offensive line to fill Hartenstein's slot. Linebacker Ron Crosby will be Murphy's replacement. Both have game time and had good springs. Defensive tackle John Quinn is back as a co-captain, and Dennis Zmudin started the last two games of 1974 as a defensive end.

SECONDARY — Tom Odell is experienced as a defensive halfback. Mike Johnson took over for Tom Giotto at safety last year, but will move to halfback while Giotto will be back as safety.
